Tanks Battle On Red Front—RAF Planes Blast Cologne

Germans Hammer Relentlessly At Russian Defenses

Greatest Mechanized Battle Of War Being Waged On Soviet Front

NAZIS MAKE SMALL GAIN; LOSSES HUGE

BULLETIN
(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9.—Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, acknowledged today that the Germans have succeeded in etching out slight gains in two places along the central front, at a terrific cost in blasted equipment, Reuter's news agency reported.

The army organ admitted that "at a cost of several hundred disabled tanks, the enemy has driven wedges into the forward edge of our defenses at two places, gaining a slight advantage."

MOSCOW, July 9.—German tank, infantry and air forces hammered relentlessly today at Russian lines on the southern front in continued desperate efforts to score a break-through.

Counter-attacks by the Red army, determined to deny the Nazis any semblance of victory, resulted in a conflict described as the greatest mechanized battle of the war to date.

Sending in its own tank forces for the first time on the fourth day of the German offensive designed to wrest control of Kursk from the Russians, the red army regained several small localities which the Nazis had seized on the first day of their drive, the Soviet high command said.

Nazis Drive Wedge

The Germans succeeded, however, after persistent attacks, in driving a new wedge into the Russian lines in the Belgorod sector at the lower end of the 160-mile fighting front.

Further terrific tolls of tanks, aircraft and men were exacted from the Germans. The Soviet high command announced that in four days of furious combat the enemy

News Cameraman Aboard Cruiser Sunk In Kula Gulf Encounter Tells Experiences Until Rescued

By ALLAN JACKSON
As Told To Jack Mahon
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, July 9.—I have just returned from the funeral of the ship which I knew and loved.

For more than two hours I floated out toward the ocean with hundreds of others and watched the swell cruiser die in battle—a battle in which our forces kicked the teeth of the Japs down their throats in a mystic darkness after midnight.

(Editor's note: The Navy department has announced loss of the 9,700-ton Cruiser Helena in the Kula gulf battle. A British broadcast quoting a southwest Pacific correspondent and heard by CBS reported that more than 600 men of the cruiser's crew were rescued.)

I was covering the battle by camera from the flying bridge, watched the ship abandoned and then jumped into the sea where I was covered from head to foot with oil. Grabbing hold of a raft, I hung on until picked up.

Of all my experiences, I was more concerned over the loss of my swell "shots" and the loss of my favorite typewriter, it sure makes me mad.

Started July 4

The adventure started July 4th when I got word that a task force was being sent to the north. When I heard that a certain cruiser was part of the force I asked and received permission to board her. I had spent two months previously aboard this ship and liked its gang.

We completed our mission and I got swell shots of the bombardment,

TOLL OF BLAZE MAY INCREASE

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 9.—Six firemen, including a battalion chief, a captain and a lieutenant, were killed and seven others were injured today when the walls of a burning building on Chicago's northwest side collapsed and plunged them into the basement.

Fire department officials said they could not tell if their figures for the dead and injured were complete until rescue work was completed.

The scene of the fire was a four-story building occupied by Wilmer S. Snow, lighting fixtures, and the H. Piehl Transfer company.

Known Dead

The known dead as listed by the fire department were:

Battalion Chief Arthur Barcal.
Capt. Henry Wurtman.
Lieut. Edward J. Moffett.
Fireman Thomas McCarthy.
Fireman Robert Walsh.
Fireman Harry Weimel.

Trapped in the basement of the building were Capt. Matthew J. McDonough, Richard Jablonski, driver for Division Marshal Del White, and Fireman L. Strenski. There remained the possibility that still others were buried in the debris.

Four firemen previously removed to Henrotin hospital were Lieut. John Ryan, Arthur Hanpel, who was dragged out of the basement through a hole drilled in the wall from an adjoining building; Charles Mackin and Maurice Geary.

Grand Jury Called To Probe Outlaw Strikes In Fayette County

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—The federal government stepped into the latest splurge of outlaw coal strikes in troublesome Fayette county today and ordered the May grand jury reconvened next Wednesday to determine if the Smith-Connally anti-strike law had been violated.

A formal court order recalling the jury was approved by federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker as rebellious miners in the Monongahela valley pressed at determined campaign to upset the back-to-work orders of the UMW's policy committee

United States Attorney Charles F. Uhl, who petitioned the court for the Jury recall, refused to give any definite information on the action, but added tersely enough:

"You may, if you like, be guided by your own conclusion that such a move has been made in the face of the current news."

He added that he was sending "copies of newspaper stories of alleged violence in picketing in Fayette county to the attorney general in Washington."

The truculent Monongahela valley miners already have forced 21 mines to cease operating, affecting 17,000 men at a cost of 81,000 tons of coal daily—just at a time when the government was pressing steel firms for more tonnage to meet increased demands from the armed

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The 78th Congress, starting out today on a two-months recess to "consult the home folks" on war and domestic problems, will face momentous tasks when it returns to Washington September 14.

The kind of peace to be written when the war is won, America's position in the postwar world, the administration's price control and subsidy program and proposals for compulsory draft of manpower loom among the issues to be faced.

Expect Counter Attacks By Japs In Munda Area

U. S. Forces Move Cautiously But Relentlessly In Solomons Drive

SUBS SINK TEN MORE JAP SHIPS

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—American forces today moved cautiously but relentlessly towards the Japanese air base at Munda, alert against possible enemy counter-attacks by sea and air.

While the navy maintained silence on progress of the American invasion drive in the central Solomons, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia reported that U. S. ground troops were consolidating forward positions as they closed in on Munda.

However, events in the past week indicated that the Japanese were moving sea and air reinforcements into the south and southwest Pacific battle zones to make the American drive as costly as possible.

Despite heavy plane losses and the destruction of nine to 11 Japanese warships in the recent battle of Kula gulf, conservative navy men warned that the enemy still had powerful reinforcements at Rabaul and Truk.

May Try Reinforcement

Unless the Nipponese decided to leave the Munda garrison to its fate, it was believed in official quarters that they would try again to reinforce and supply their troops on New Georgia island by sea and air.

This tendency was foreshadowed by the fact that the Japs risked at least a dozen cruisers and destroyers in an effort to move in troops in the Kula bay area on July 6. The force was smashed, however, by American warships which trapped the Japs in an early morning battle.

Cologne Is Again Heavily Bombed By RAF Raiders

Industrial Rhineland City Is Blasted Third Time In Two Weeks

BLOCKBUSTER BOMBS ARE DROPPED ON CITY

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 9.—Waves of Royal Air Force bombers early today blasted the industrial Rhineland city of Cologne for the third time within two weeks.

The bombardment, which the air ministry described as heavy, cost the R. A. F. eight of its heavyweight bombers.

The raid was the 119th of the war against Cologne, target of the first 1,000-plane assault in May of last year, and marked a resumption of the Allied cycle of aerial assault on the continent after a four-night lull imposed by unfavorable weather.

New Raids

The returning bomber squadrons were followed out over the continent by squadrons of fighters which crossed the English channel toward France at breakfast time.

In addition to the main assault on Cologne, other R. A. F. craft laid mines in enemy-controlled waters while intruder planes attacked Nazi airfields and railroads in France and northwest Germany.

Planes of the fleet air arm damaged three German mine-sweepers off the French coast.

The extensive mine-laying and intruder assaults necessitated the dispatch of sizeable formation of R. A. F. planes and some coastal observers reported that squadrons going out from England during the night involved a greater number of craft than ever was employed before.

Collaboration Seen

The collaboration of the three air arms, bombers, intruders and fleet planes, was seen as the latest development in Allied aerial coordination. This type of combined operation is expected to prove extremely important when all manner of aircraft eventually will be called on to support Allied invasion armies afield.

Cologne, Rhine river port, rail center and site of vast plants producing war materials, was blasted

Bomb Attacks Are Widespread

(International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 9.—American war planes, determined to maintain the almost 'round-the-clock battering of Japanese airdromes and roadsteads in the northern Solomons, were out in force Wednesday night.

Impressive formations of Dauntless dive-bombers, Avengers and Corsair fighters roared against the enemy's key airdrome at Vila, loosing 21 tons of bombs on runways, supply dumps and bivouac areas.

At Bougainville's Buin-Faisi area, meanwhile, Liberator heavy bombers, striking after dark, hurled down another 23 tons, focusing their attention on airdrome dispersal areas. One Liberator failed to return to its base.

There is no indication of any renewed naval activity in the Solomons, according to reports from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters.

In the Mubo-Salamaua area of New Guinea, combined American and Australian ground forces held the initiative as well as emerging the victors in a series of sharp patrol clashes being waged almost continuously in the Bodubi and Orodubi sectors.

Wounded Marine Home On Furlough

Pfc. William Dean Here After Long Service In Guadalcanal War Sector

Home on a 30-day furlough, Pfc. William Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean, of 1009 Becker street, is enjoying a reunion with his family and friends after two years service in the United States Marines. His is a hospital furlough, for in the fighting on Guadalcanal he was severely wounded by shrapnel in the head, stomach and legs.

Back in July, 1941, Mr. Dean enlisted in the Marines and trained at Parris Island, S. C., and New River, N. C. He was assigned to the Marine Air Corps as a gunner and mechanic. In October, 1942, he landed on Guadalcanal and saw a lot of action until May, 1943, when he was wounded when the Japs ground strafed the American troops.

After a hospital stay on Guadalcanal he was sent back to the United States and since then has been in a Marine hospital in San Francisco. He was sufficiently recovered to be permitted to come home, but at the end of his furlough he will go to a Chicago military hospital for further treatment.

As to the fighting on Guadalcanal he has little to say, which is usual with men who have been in battle. He is delighted to be home after his experiences on the island, which was taken from the Japs after some terrific fighting.

Pincers Closing Tighter On Jap Base At Munda

Preparations Being Made For All-Out Assault On New Georgia Base

AIR FORCE BLASTS AT JAP DEFENSES

By LEE VAN ATTA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, July 9.—The jaws of the American pincers drive on the Jap air base at Munda, on New Georgia Island in the Solomons, closed tighter today after Yank troops successfully repulsed a Jap ground patrol only three miles from the imperilled enemy airfield.

(A further advance by the Americans was reported in a Japanese imperial high command communique broadcast by the Tokyo radio which said that the Yanks had gone ashore on tiny Rubina Isle south of Munda.

(The Japs gave out the information in announcing that their air units on Wednesday had attacked the forces which advanced to Rubina. It was claimed that big fires were started during the air assault and that 31 Allied interceptor planes were shot down at a cost of only four Jap craft.)

Jap Attempt Frustrated

A Jap attempt to gain a foothold on tiny Dugeri Island, just off the northeast shore of American-occupied Rendova, was frustrated by a tank patrol which drove off 20 Nipponese troops.

Bitter patrol clashes between Allied ground forces and Jap units also were in progress on the New Guinea battlefront 700 miles to the west where American and Australian forces engaged the enemy in the Bobdubi and Oroduibi areas on the approaches to Salamaua.

The Allied land drives were accompanied by relentless assaults by American and Australian bomber and fighter planes over the length and breadth of enemy-held territory in the Solomons-New Guinea area.

The clash on the approaches to Munda occurred at Elelo, three miles to the west of the vital Jap airdrome, when American forces encountered Nipponese units after a march through the jungles from Sanana.

Nazis Now Admit Starting Battles On Soviet Front

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9.—The German high command admitted for the first time today that the Nazi army had started the battle now raging on the southern front in Russia in an official communique declaring that the Red army, employing heavy tanks, loosed a counter-attack against Hitler's troops yesterday.

The Nazis maintained ever since the struggle began in the early hours of Monday that the Russians had started the fighting in an attempt to smash forward to the Ukraine capital of Kiev whereas the Soviet high command announced the Germans began the offensive in the hope of retaking Kursk.

Steubenville Flood Swept

Break Caused In Water Main—Hugh Loss Is Reported In Area

NEARLY 7 INCHES OF RAIN FALLS

(International News Service)

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 9.—City crews aided by industrial engineers worked feverishly through the night and early today to repair a break in mains which left the city without a water supply in the wake of the most disastrous storm in half a century which also killed two and made about 1,000 persons homeless.

The storm, with a record-breaking rainfall of 6.81 inches in seven hours late yesterday, developed a "flash" flood in two city districts and one outlying area and resulted in property damage put conservatively at a half million dollars.

Woman Is Killed

The flood in the Alikanna area, where Mrs. Thomas McNeal, 37, was swept to death when the swirling waters carried her into the Ohio river, wrecked Steubenville's entire water supply in a matter of a few minutes.

Debris of five houses hurled over state route seven onto city water works property gauged a 20-inch main out of the ground and disrupted pumping service to the filtration plant and reservoirs.

Traffic over most county and state highways in the vicinity of the stricken area was restricted by police because of washouts and destruction of bridges.

A preliminary survey in Steubenville and Jefferson counties revealed that 15 houses at Alikanna and Georges Run were totally destroyed and more than 400 severely damaged.

losses now total 1,843 tanks and 810 planes. The roster of German dead mounted above the 35,000 mark.

Besides meeting all the frontal assaults of the Germans head-on, the Russians sought to stem the force of the enemy attacks by dispatching waves of Soviet aircraft behind the battle front to blast the German supply dumps and troop concentrations.

Red Bombers Attack

Air circles disclosed that large forces of Soviet bombers plastered military trains, troop concentrations, tanks and trucks and also bombed strategic river crossings all along the Orel - Kursk - Belgorod front.

(A Stockholm dispatch to the Daily Mail in London quoted Moscow sources as acknowledging that the situation on the southern front is tense and that the battle has reached a critical stage.

(In the German attack which now is nearing its maximum momentum, the Stockholm report said, the Nazis probably are using three-quarters of their total armor on the southern front.

(The Nazi-controlled Oslo radio followed up a Vichy broadcast stating the Russians were using American-made Grant and Sherman tanks by asserting that 20 per cent of the Soviet-manned tanks are British and American made.)

Nazis Suffer Heavily

The incessant assaults by the Germans on the Belgorod sector were supported by large forces of aircraft. The Russians met every thrust with heavy fire from all types of arms in counter-action designed to destroy as much of the German manpower and equipment as possible. These counter-measures resulted in withdrawals by the Germans after they had suffered heavy losses.

Resuming the attack with fresh tank units, the Soviet high command said, the Germans finally succeeded in driving a wedge into the Russian defenses. But in so doing the Germans suffered heavy new casualties and losses in equipment by permitting their troops to be cut off.

"By letting the tanks through," said the high command, "Soviet infantry cut off the German infantry from the tanks and dealt them devastating blows. At the same time Soviet gunners, mortar crews and tank crews opened fire against the tanks which broke through."

NEWS CAMERAMAN ON SUNKEN CRUISER TELLS EXPERIENCES

including the return fire of Jap shore batteries both from New Georgia island and from Kolombangara island to the north.

We were steaming south to refuel when word was flashed that a large Jap task force was heading from Bougainville island.

Ordered to return immediately, we made a violent about-face and steamed north again at full speed

Just after dark two destroyers joined us and we were at full strength again. Word was passed over the loudspeakers that we were enroute to intercept the Tokyo express and to be ready to man battle stations at midnight.

Cruiser Is Hit

I took my gear up to the fighting bridge 15 minutes before midnight and we waited in silence to spot our target.

The destroyers were up front screening and the cruiser formation was behind, with our ship in the middle. At 1:30 a. m. seven targets were reported in Kula gulf between New Georgia and Kolombangara.

We closed in and at 2 a. m. opened fire. After six minutes of continuous firing our force reported two targets had disappeared and could be presumed sunk.

Not long after the battle had started, with all ships firing and shells whizzing past us into the water there was a loud explosion. Everyone was asking if we should abandon ship without getting an official reply. I went to my cabin to get a camera. The men were lowering boats and going overside into pitch black water.

I jumped from the quarter deck into the ocean, clutching a bag containing a camera and some film. I swam five minutes and came to a raft loaded with men with about 20 more hanging alongside.

Ship Goes Down

About 3 a. m.—My watch was still going—came the cry: "There she goes." As the shout rang out I turned and saw her go down.

Our main fear was that we would drift ashore on Kolombangara and become prisoners of the Japs. Our ships had gone on, pursuing a target, unaware of our fate.

Finally we spotted another raft and paddled furiously. We succeeded in lashing the two together.

As we lay in the water we could plainly hear the continued firing but could not see the battle. When the shells went under they were like depth charges and hit you in the stomach hard.

From somewhere in the darkness someone hollered he had spotted a ship and several rafts in the area began flashing lights. We hollered to have them put out for we didn't know whether the ship was ours or a Jap ship.

Searchlight Seen

Then a searchlight came through the darkness briefly and then went out. Shortly it was on again and then disappeared a second time.

We learned later that a destroyer had identified the bow of our ill-fated ship, obtaining the first knowledge that we had been sunk, and then had begun a search for survivors.

Finally that strange ship lurking in the darkness was spotted again and there was much argument over whether to flash lights. We finally decided to risk it.

One destroyer came over shortly afterward and picked up only the raft containing officers and started away. Everyone hollered:

"Hey, are you coming back?"

We'll Be Back"

"Take it easy," came the answer from the destroyer, "We'll be back".

They were gone about a half hour when the destroyer again was seen approaching.

We were picked up shortly after 4 a. m., after two hours in the water.

Then we got the explanation of why the destroyer left us temporarily after we were first sighted—the destroyer had spotted a new target and attacked it. It had scored two hits.

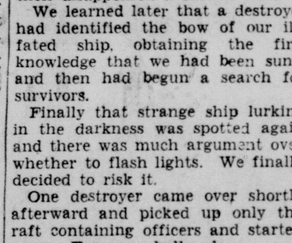

After we were picked up enemy targets were spotted and fired on. A hit was recorded in the second attack and a light enemy cruiser was left smoking after a third.

This took place in the early dawn, with the enemy clearly visible.

By this time the captain decided to call it a night and we headed for home with terrific speed.

If only I had not lost those shots and my typewriter I would feel great. I feel oily but otherwise fine—but say, where is that bed?

miles west of Munda, consolidated newly-gained positions in preparation for an all-out assault on the airdrome in conjunction with other Yank forces went ashore at Rice anchorage, about 12 miles to the north of Kula Gulf.

The ground situation on Rendova, with the exception of the defeated Jap sortie on nearby Dugeri, was quiet, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said. Jap planes made a weak attack against American positions on Rendova, dropping only two bombs which caused slight damage and casualties.

American Liberator bombers dauntless dive-bombers and avenger torpedo planes hammered repeatedly at Jap bases northwest of the New Georgia fighting area from which the enemy could be expected to send reinforcements to aid the beleguered Nipponese troops.

Hammer Airdrome

The Liberators swarmed over the Buin-Faisi roadstead area at the lower end of Bougainville Island. In a darkness assault the heavy bombers unloaded 23 tons of high explosives on the Kahili airdrome, on Bougainville, starting several fires. One plane was lost.

The dive-bombers and torpedo planes, flying with fighter escort, concentrated their blows on the Jap base of Vila, on Kolombangara Island across the Kula Gulf from Munda. They attacked supply dumps and Bivouac areas with 21 tons of high explosives.

Mitchell medium bombers and havoc attack planes blasted the Salamaua area, dropping in all some 50 tons of explosives despite unfavorable weather conditions.

Attacking in force, the Allied squadrons bombed and strafed Jap ground installations at Kela point, Malolo Village and along tracks in the Logui area. Heavy damage was wrought among buildings and numerous fires were started.

In Nubo Area

Concentrated bombing and strafing assaults were carried out in the Mubo area, 10 miles below Salamaua, by medium bombers supporting Allied ground troops. The planes hammered Jap troop positions and installations in the Bulgap Creek area as Allied patrols fought with Nipponese soldiers in the Bobdubi and Orodubi areas.

Over the Bena Bena area four Allied fighters intercepted 10 Jap Zero fighters and shot down two without loss to themselves. In the only other reported action over New Guinea an Allied reconnaissance unit bombed the building area at the port of Finschhafen.

Other Mitchell bombers and Liberators revisited the Penfoei airdrome at Kupang, on the Dutch-Portuguese island of Timor west of New Guinea, and started numerous fires, several of which were believed to be burning aircraft caught on the ground.

During the Liberator raid a force of 14 Zeros attempted interception and three were shot into the sea. Two others were believed destroyd.

CONGRESS STARTS RECESS PERIOD

ously for three years, with the exception of 30 days. It had completed all major tasks relating to effective prosecution of the war, including the voting of near $130,000,000,000 to operate the government for one year.

Legislative issues to be acted on next fall include the Ball-Burton-Hatch-Hill Senate resolution for a United Nations conference to arrange for peace and policing of the postwar world and the Fulbright resolution pending in the House, which pledges American cooperation for lasting peace.

Unsolved Problems

Unsolved problems include:

Austin-Wadsworth bill for compulsory draft of manpower.

Wheeler resolution to postpone draft of fathers until January 1.

Anti-racketeering act, passed by House, and pending in Senate. Brings labor unions within terms of the law.

"Cradle to grave" social security plan of administration.

The Senate yielded at the last minute to President Roosevelt in the battle over the administration's food price roll-back and subsidy program, but militant farm bloc members predicted that the fight will be started all over again next fall.

Congress left a record of strong anti-New Deal tendencies and an effort to slash non-war expenditures. Republican leaders believe that the anti-New Deal tendency will be emphasized. With the shadow of the 1944 election looming, however, Democratic leaders expect the party to begin to show signs of solidarity in Congress next fall.

In six months Congress dismantled more New Deal agencies than in 10 previous years. It killed the National Youth Administration, National Resources Planning board, crop insurance and the Guffey coal act. It passed the Connally-Smith anti-strike bill over a veto.

Seeking to regain powers lost in the appropriation of vast sums with no strings attached, Congress gave President Roosevelt added funds but prohibited him from spending them for any function for which the legislature had denied an appropriation.

It slashed Mr. Roosevelt's budget by $1,100,000,000, enacted a partially satisfactory pay-as-you-go tax bill, repealed the $25,000 salary limit order, rejected the nomination of Edward J. Flynn to be minister to Australia and cut funds for many New Deal agencies.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, won extension of the reciprocal trade treaty law, lend-lease and retained his full powers under the price control and anti-inflation acts.

FUTURE CAREERS

(International News Service)

ITHACA, N. Y.—Only 15 per cent (or 12 in actual number) of 81 young women graduated recently from the State College of Home Economics planned to marry in the near future. Of the remainder, one does not plan to work; three will take graduate work. Forty-four of the 65 remaining girls have positions.

America's current Pacific offensive, however, appeared to be gaining momentum on all fronts, and while the Japanese were expected to strike back there was no doubt that U. S. forces held the initiative in every war zone.

Subs Sink Ten More

The navy's latest report on submarine activity disclosed that 10 more Japanese supply vessels and cargo ships were sunk in Pacific and far eastern waters by long range U. S. submersibles. In addition, four enemy cargo ships were reported damaged.

This raised to 283 the number of Japanese vessels of all types sunk, probably sunk and damaged by submarines to date.

The brilliant successes of U. S. submarines have been reflected in the gradual but noticeable slowing down of Japan's aggressive war effort throughout the Pacific.

There was no further news from the north Pacific since the U. S. warship bombardment of the Japanese positions on Kiska, but American airmen were ready to go into action at any time that weather permitted.

Japs Diminishing War Effort

Kiska is one of the best examples of Japan's diminishing war effort. The enemy garrison, estimated at 10,000, has been isolated from Japan's home bases by American sea and air forces since the fall of Attu island, 200 miles to the west.

The Japanese made no serious attempt to reinforce or rescue the Attu garrison and have sent no cargo ships into Kiska during the past few weeks.

An invasion of Kiska by American forces is inevitable, and the United States must move shortly if the Japs are to be swept out of the western Aleutians this year.

last on July 3 when the R. A. F. made a two-pronged assault on the Duetz and Kalk areas on the east bank of the Rhine and hammered the port of Hamburg. Previously Cologne was bombarded on June 27.

Although the bomber force was numerally smaller than those which recently have undertaken the heaviest raids against Germany, it was believed that a considerable tonnage of blockbuster bombs were showered down on Cologne by the Lancasters, Stirlings and Halifaxes which took part.

The only sure thing about a family row is that men will think the husband right and women will think the wife right.

END OF THE LULL

THE spring and early summer lull has been broken on several important battlefronts. Perhaps it isn't accurate to call the situation which has existed in the Mediterranean a lull—at least the Italians, witnessing the unrelenting bombing of their island and mainland ports, wouldn't consider it that.

The British commando raid on Crete, wholly successful in its limited scope, gave a picture of invasion tactics. The Crete incident was not a major offensive, nor necessarily a prelude to one in that sector. The inhabitants, who were told by radio that the operation was not an invasion, remained aloof. Next to the destruction of enemy planes and oil dumps, the most important result was the information that Crete, at the moment, is not well defended, or that the defenders were caught by surprise. When such a raid is completed without loss of life, it is evident that something is lacking in enemy defenses.

The American-Australian attack in the Southwest Pacific, which has already resulted in big air and sea battles in which the Japs were routed, is the beginning of a carefully planned Allied advance.

But most exciting of all military actions is that taking place on the Orel-Kursk-Belgorod sector in Russia. Even discounting Soviet claims of enemy tank and plane losses, it is evident that this is more than a feeling out of Red strength by the Nazis. It is either an attempt to flatten out the Russian bulge at this point or the long-awaited Nazi summer offensive. In either case, the Red army is determined that Hitler will have to fight for every rod of ground.

If this really is the start of a third Nazi campaign in Russia, the implications are interesting. It would be proof, if any were needed, that Hitler still prevails in the German military councils, and that the Nazis feel they can risk a large-scale campaign in spite of threats of Allied invasion of Europe.

The delay in undertaking the campaign has led many persons to believe that Hitler had decided to establish defensive positions in Russia while preparing to meet the expected Anglo-American assault on his European fortress.

The summer is still young, and fighting on most fronts may be expected to gain momentum in the next few months. But it may not be revealed until next winter whether Germany can hold out against increasing pressure from without and lowered morale from within.

The Allied high command in the west is watching closely the German drive in Russia. Our military commanders want to be absolutely certain that this is the real thing and not a German ruse. We have no intention of being lured into a trap in the west by premature action, but once it is firmly established that the Germans are committed to a full-scale offensive in Russia, we might not hesitate to launch our long-awaited attack against the continent.

SAGA OF "BIG INCH"

Before the end of the summer between 250,000 and 300,000 barrels of crude oil per day will be delivered on the Eastern Seaboard through the huge "big inch" steel pipe line, 1,388 miles long, with termini at Longview, Texas, and Bayonne, New Jersey. It is good news that the last trainload of 24-inch seamless steel pipe, the largest ever constructed for such a purpose, has arrived in the east for completion of the job.

It was a year ago that the War Production Board gave approval for 550 miles of pipe line from the Texas fields to Norris City, Illinois. In late October the board approved extending it to the East. A month later authority was granted for a parallel pipe line to convey refined oil.

The first crude oil through the "Big Inch" reached Norris City early in February, and a few days later tank cars were pressed into service to haul about half of it—that was all they could carry—to eastern refineries. But before the first tank train started, surveys were being made for the New Jersey end of the job from Lambertville, where the "Big Inch" entered the state on the 47-mile cross country spread to Bayonne.

This was not the easy sort of terrain the "pipe liners" encountered in the South and Middle West. Laying the pipe involved blasting for trenches in the beds of the Delaware river, the Delaware and Raritan Canal, the Raritan River and the Rahway River. Where the going was easy huge machines dug trenches and as much as a mile of pipe was laid a day. At one point or another the blasting, the spectacle of trench digging at an almost unbelievable rate and the laying of the pipe thrilled thousands of people.

Soon oil, accelerated by many pumping stations along the route, will be flowing in a constant stream, day and night, seven days a week, from Texas to Bayonne. It will move at the rate of four and one-half miles an hour, comparable to the pace of a smart infantry regiment on the march.

If there hadn't been a war and the consequent diversion of the 500 tankers that formerly transported oil to the East to the hauling of petroleum products to Europe, there wouldn't be a "Big Inch." What this additional flow of oil to the East will mean to families who heat their homes with oil or to drivers of automobiles has not been disclosed. But with the completion of the parallel line the gasoline and fuel oil shortages on the Atlantic Seaboard may be eased.

Despite General Henry H. Arnold's prediction of war's early end, some skeptics had their doubts until W.P.B. lifted the ban on trouser cuffs.

Between 1929 and 1940 millions of Americans worried about what to do with their leisure, and beginning in 1943 some classes wonder what to do, without their money.

The Detroit traitor, Stephan, who became hysterical before his sentence to be hanged was commuted by the President several hours before the scheduled stretching of his neck, now knows how Hitler feels.

The kitten in Oregon that survived adventure in a washing machine in operation should make an ideal mascot for an Army tank unit.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GIRLS IN SERVICE WIN HIGH PRAISE

For over six months, Mrs. Myers and I have been traveling constantly by bus and train throughout the nation conducting conferences and forums with parents, teachers, welfare workers, church leaders civic clubs and the like, on matters of family morale and child care and protection.

During all this time we have been impressed with the excellent bearing and decorum of the WAACs and WAVEs and other groups of women in the armed forces. In buses, trains, station, hotels, we have not seen a single one of these young women acting in a way unbecoming of a lady. Repeatedly we have told each other and public audiences of our delight at the wonderful way these young women in uniform are measuring up to their responsibility as revealed in public places.

We would be proud to have a daughter among them. Any other parent well might be. Consider, too, the fine discipline they receive and the fine service they are rendering and will render to our country. Why more young women don't volunteer in these services is more than I can understand.

In contrast with the WAACs and WAVEs, consider the thousands of young women in their twenties even in their teens, who are going away from their homes in the country, village, town or city to work in defense industries, usually where they don't know a single soul on arrival. Consider the moral dangers they face and the fact that some of them do get into bad company, in a strange place, away from relatives and acquaintances, lonely and often able to have unconventional association with men without any one back home knowing about it. Wholly on their own subject to no discipline comparable to that of the WAACs and WAVEs how can they be nearly so safe as the latter?

Large Salaries Tempt Workers

Wouldn't you rather have your daughter enter the WAACs and WAVEs than to go to a strange town or city to take a job in an industry? Apparently most parents would not. Maybe they are thinking of bigger money from the job.

Here let me urge the girl or young woman who is leaving her home for a strange place to take her ideals and religion with her and immediately tie up with a church and its youth organizations. She will be wise before leaving home to write the YWCA of the new place for information and advice about a place to live; wise, too, if she takes out a membership in the YWCA. If she thinks clearly she will see that doing a patriotic service will consist not only of working hard in a war industry, but also in working hard to maintain her highest standards of womanhood.

The World and the Mud Puddles

FIGURES AND FACTS

The Japs should get together when they start talking to the world about the war. The Tokyo navy minister recently proclaimed that the Japanese navy had sunk thirteen Allied battleships, nine aircraft carriers, fifty-five cruisers, sixty-six destroyers and one hundred twenty-eight submarines. This closely approaches the strength of the entire American fleet at the beginning of the war which, at that time, included seventeen battleships, seven aircraft carriers, thirty-seven cruisers, one hundred sixty-eight destroyers and one hundred eleven submarines.

Great Britain has, of course, had a few ships in the Pacific, but even granting that they had as many as we had in that theater of war, the Jap claim would mean that about half of the Allied combined fleet had been destroyed. Since nothing is available to substantiate any such assumption of British strength in the Pacific, the Jap claim would mean that they virtually had wiped out their opposition.

The Japanese public might have considered trouble in reconciling those figures with the statement made, on the same day, by Premier Tojo in warning the Japanese parliament that there are mounting signs that a great British-American offensive is near.

By placing the Japanese statements side by side, one reaches the conclusion that by the time the Japs have destroyed our entire fleet for the third or fourth time, they really will begin to worry about the outcome of the war.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:31. Sun rises otmorrow 5:39.

Elderberry pickers are now getting 50 cents a bushel. Remember when we sold a whole bushel for 50 cents?

Education and prayer are much alike. The more you need either the less you comprehend the need.

One of the great heroes after the war is over will be Gen. MacArthur. He is doing a great work.

Freedom is like virtue. You can lose it only once.

A little girl was accompanying her parents on a vital and very necessary journey to a distant city. By luck, her parents had secured an upper and lower Pullman berth. She with her younger sister had been put in the upper berth and was lonely and frightened, to reassure her, her mother told her not to be afraid because God would watch over her.

After a few minutes of silence, she cried, "Mother, are you there?"

"Yes, dear."

"Father, are you there?"

"Yes."

And, after she had repeated this several times, a travel weary soldier lost his patience and shouted: "Yes, we're all here. Your Father, your Mother and the whole United States Army. Now shut up and give the rest of us a chance to go to sleep."

There was a pause, then, softly: "Mamma?"

"Well?"

"Was that God?"

You have just finished a book that had a sad ending. What was it? Your check book.

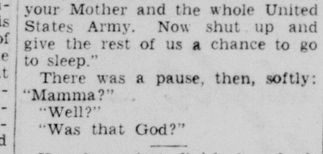

And on the other hand, some people's idea of hell and eternal damnation is a place where they will be compelled to stay home when they have a day off.

A Pittsburgh woman in her divorce suit claimed she found lipstick on her husband's cheek and on his handkerchief. That lipstick stuff is causing a lot of trouble in this world.

Connie, who used to be a more or less regular contributor to this column, is stationed somewhere in England and while on furlough in London recently experienced an air raid alert. He had no more than squeezed in the door until a sweet young voice asked: "Is there a macintosh in here that's large enough to keep two young ladies warm?"

"No," said Connie. "But there's a MacPherson who's willing to try."

Quite a few women are runing for public office in this country now. It might be a considerable improvement if some are elected.

Some families go merrily on, never knowing they are ailing, and others have a clinical thermometer.

Another objection to capital punishment is that it seems so inadequate for those who need it.

Everybody wants to stand in front of the elevator.

The minds of some people are packed with unorganized information.

It had been Junior's ambition ever since he whittled out boats and 'sailed' them on the fish pond in the back garden to join the navy and see the world. . . so naturally, his family awaited eagerly for his letters from the navy 'boot' camp. The first letters were enthusiastic about his new life, but after the first two weeks, he wrote. . .

". . . And, I joined up for adventure on the high seas, travel to distant lands, and a crack at the Jap. At the end of the first two weeks, I've spent most of the time digging ditches, chopping trees and filling up the holes. The navy told me I'd see the world. But, honest-to-goodness, so far I've done nothing but rearrange it.

It is claimed that it was during the first World War that women discovered lipstick and boobed hair. Wonder what they will discover during this war?

Some days the news is so depressing that we turn directly to the sports pages.

It seems incredible that the sweet thin girls of today will soon be middle aged and plump.

JUVENILE LOGIC

Three-year-old Nancy has spent the evening in rapt attention before the radio. Finally, it was time for bed and prayers. Kneeling before her bed, she repeated her 'Now I lay me' then stopped at the close for a brief pause, changed her voice slightly, and added:

"Tomorrow night at this time there will be another prayer."

ACKNOWLEDGING GIFTS

Last evening I was in a group that got deep into the subject of culture tests and ratings. One man said he can always classify people culturally by the care they take of their teeth. Others rated them by their voices, their pronunciations, their grammar, their dress, their streamlined figures. One very cultured man said he could classify moderns by the way they acknowledge gifts—particularly wedding, birthday, graduation, Christmas presents, as well their punctuality in writing their bread-and-butter letters after visits.

Those to the manner born always make acknowledgement by written note; those a grade lower use cards for gift acknowledgements whether the meeting is a week or a month hence. And then there are the undercrusters who too often forget to make any acknowledgment at all. These, he says, are the same people who walk out of restaurants with toothpicks in their mouths. To all of which I add: Whenever you receive a gift, act as if you are simply delighted with it, even if it is something for which you will have no use. Never admit that you have two or three such items in your closet that you never use. This might sound preposterous, but I have heard such uncomplimentary remarks tactlessly made. Never ask the donor if you might return his gift for something else you prefer.

Question: When a young man becomes engaged, is it necessary for his mother to give his fiancee a gift?—Mother.

Answer: It is not necessary, but members of the man's family sometimes give her something for her "hope chest".

Question: When I attend a funeral at a funeral parlor, should I go over and speak to the bereaved family?—George.

Answer: Yes, go over and offer your condolences.

United States Subs Hammer Jap Shipping
Many Nip Ships Have Already Been Sunk
Naval Losses Have Been Low In Campaign

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Since the outbreak of war in the Pacific, America's long-range deadly submarines have bone the brunt of this nation's offensive operations against Japan on a relentless "round-the-clock" basis.

Although strictest naval secrecy has surrounded details concerning activities of the sinister undersea fleet, enough facts have been released to indicate that subs have dealt smashing blows to the enemy's supply lines.

The full story of America's successful submarine offensive may not be told until the end of the war, but it is known that approximately 260 and possibly as many as 300 Jap ships of all types have been torpedoed, most of them sunk.

Included in the list of enemy ships sunk and damaged are vitually every type of craft, from battleships to small patrol vessels. To accomplish this, only six submarines have been listed as "overdue and presumed lost."

This record is considered remarkable by navy men, considering the vast distances involved in the Pacific war and the fact that the United States lost its advance bases early in the war.

United States submersibles went into action against Japanese shipping before the flames had subsided following the enemy sneak attack against Pearl Harbor. Within 10 days after the Jap attack, the navy reported the sinking by a submarine of an enemy transport and damage to a destroyer in the Far East.

American submersibles were the first of the nation's fighting forces to carry the war to the shores of Japan. An undisclosed number of enemy ships have been sunk within sight of the enemy homeland.

Attacks on enemy shipping have been only part of the important

WISHFUL THINKING

Old Crankmire banged the table till the dishes jumped about
And he said: "That's wishful thinking, and we ought to cut it out!
It's a bitter war we're fighting and there's danger grave ahead.
Those Japs will give us battle till the last of them is dead!
Every minute now is precious! for the war is far from won.
We must waste no time in boasting till the job on hand is done.

"Yes, I know the wheels are turning and production's on the rise,
But I also know in battle many a
Yankee youngster dies.
And I know his dad and mother and his friends don't think it right
When they're told about it later and must read: 'The loss was slight!'"
So I say don't sit here boasting of how soon the war will end.
It's not merely time you're wasting;
it is Yankee lives you spend.

"Let us everyone remember all those battle posts afar.
In the thick of vicious dangers night and day those youngsters are.
And although the skies are clearing, still the clouds obscure the sun
And this war will not be over till the final battle's won.
So let's all get down to business,
let us give our boys the stuff
Till the Nazis and the Japsies with their hands up cry, 'Enough!'"

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

Well the president of the American Library Association says people have stopped reading books and it's no wonder.

Everybody you know is writing a book. Nobody has time to read one.

There's a new book out by a woman who had a baby. That's all—She had a baby. And she's done a book about it.

There's another one out by a woman who hasn't done anything particular except have a couple of husbands and a lot of jobs.

On the male side any man who isn't writing a book is just fresh out of pencils and paper that's all.

Napoleon said every soldier carried a marshall's baton in his knapsack but our new army carries portable typewriters.

"See where Private Hargrove" touched off a literary shower from the armed forces and then the war correspondents moved up and opened a barrage with "I was there" copy.

Old Harold Ickes has come up with two books in a little less than two months and he's got all Washington scribbling fast.

Thought for the day: What ever became of the paper shortage?

Treasury Mistake

WASHINGTON, July 9. IT WOULD be greatly in the national interests if before the next Treasury drive, scheduled for September, Secretary Morgenthau could adjust himself to the fact that the job of financing the war, which rests on his shoulders, is so huge and so vital that he needs the aid of every competent man he can get, whether he likes him or not.

ONE TROUBLE with Mr. Morgenthau is that he is a moody man whose mind is filled with small suspicions, most of them unfounded. He has a distrustful disposition, tending to think that people are trying to "undermine" him, or take credit away from him or put something over on him. This somewhat morbid sensitiveness is one reason he has had difficulty in getting first-class men in the Treasury and in keeping those he had. The mortality among Treasury officials in the last ten years has exceeded that in any other department. One has only to call the roll of the Under Secretaries who have come and gone—Dean Acheson, Roswell Magill, T. Jefferson Coolidge, John W. Haynes—to prove the instability of the organization.

IN ADDITION there have been numerous Assistant Secretaries, special aides and advisers who have come into the Treasury, stayed a little while and gone out. Some of these changes have not been Mr. Morgenthau's fault; some of them have been. Certanly, recent resignations, such as those of Mr. George Buffington and Mr. Robert Hobbs, were his own responsibility, due large to his strange decision to scrap the Federal Reserve setup under which the last two drives were successfully made and around which had clustered some 50,000 trained bond salesmen from all over the country, working under the experienced direction of the Federal Reserve presidents in the twelve regional divisions.

IT WAS a shock when a month ago Mr. Morgenthau announced that all this was to be thrown into the discard and the next drive would be handled on a State basis with forty-eight State chairmen whom he would select. This is to report that the shock has not subsided and that the situation as it exists is disturbing. In defense of Mr. Morgenthau's

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Like millions of others, little Robert Little of North Carolina thought that New York is the promised land where milk and honey flow.

He was good and tired of getting up at break of day, doing the chores, milking the cow, going to school, doing some more chores and, in the evening, selling newspapers to make some extra money.

So, with the ten dollars he had saved up, he started on his great adventure — without saying goodbye to his folks.

He walked part of the way, did some hitch-hiking, rode on a few buses and finally arrived in the Big City.

Was this the New York of which he had dreamed?

Oh yes, the buildings were high, there were lots of people and plenty of excitement.

But gosh, what a lonesome place! Nobody to talk to. Everybody rushing and jostling.

Not a friendly face in the crowd. How tired the folks looked, how pale, how worried.

He would have liked to go to the movies but he had only forty-seven cents left.

So he bought himself some doughnuts and got on the subway. He rode and rode until four in the morning, taking a few snoozes now and then.

Finally a policeman found him fast asleep, stretched out on a bench in a Brooklyn subway station.

He queried the sandy-haired, blue-eyed visitor, dressed in the same blue denims and blue shirt in which he left the North Carolina farm.

Bob readily told his story.

"New York sure ain't what it's cracked up to be. I want to go home and milk my cow."

So the 13-year old explorer was taken to the Children's Society shelter, his father was notified and today Bob is milking his cow again, going to school, doing his chores and selling his papers.

There are thousands all over the country who dream of the Big City and its wonderful opportunities.

They dream and dream of the great things they are going to do how rich and famous they will become.

Don't do it. Stay where you are.

There are opportunities in New York, sure enough. But for every opportunity there are a thousand applicants, for every success a thousand failures.

I have talked to many successful people

I have yet to meet the first one to whom success alone brought happiness

Failure can be success if with it comes contentment and peace of mind.

Living in the turmoil of New York, I sometimes wish I had a cow to milk.

Word was received from another son, Tech. Sergeant William Bevan, this week, from North Africa, that he was well at writing.

RED CROSS LOSES FEW MERCY SHIP CARGOES AT SEA

Thirty Foreign Countries Receive $32,110,744 In Supplies During War

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9. — The American Red Cross has shipped food, clothing and medical supplies to the value of $33,502,316 to Allied nations since the war began with the loss of but $1,391,572 in cargoes, Chairman Norman H. Davis reported.

The story of how the American mercy ships have successfully carried out their missions in the face of U-boat warfare was revealed in a report to President Roosevelt which has been transmitted to congress.

Japan Stops Civilian Aid

Davis also revealed that Japan has put a stop to all aid for the civilian population of occupied China.

Of the losses, $470,000 in food, medical supplies and other items were on way to Great Britain and $485,000 in supplies was Russia bound, Davis reported. Another ship was lost at sea on its way to Greece before occupation of that country and has not since been traced.

In spite of wartime obstacles, 32,500,000 distressed people in 30 countries have been given food, clothing, medical supplies and other aid, according to the report.

Greek Supplies Diverted

As to Greece, Davis said conditions there are such that supplies have been diverted from that country to Cairo, Egypt, and stored, but that Greek refugees arriving in Cairo and other points are given consideration above all others.

In Iran 37,000 Polish refugees arriving through Russia have been given help, while another 21,000 poles have been taken care of as they arrive in South Africa.

Total relief so far given to Russia was put at $10,174,162, of which $8,476,787 was bought with government funds. Aid to Britain since 1939 was put at $35,719,648, of which $16,474,295 was bought out of $85,000,000 in government appropriations to the Red Cross.

In North Africa 150,000 children and expectant mothers are being cared for in addition to 464,000 others in need in that area.

BRIEF NEWS OVER STATE

(International News Service)

MIDDLETOWN—The Army Air Forces evacuated 18,000 sick and wounded men from the African theater alone, according to Gen. David Grant. On some days, as many as 600 patients were moved, three times the number which can be carried by a hospital train on one trip.

STATE COLLEGE—More than 100 high school graduates have begun training in elementary engineering subjects at Pennsylvania State College training centers throughout the state as a prelude to war work. The majority of them are young women.

CARLISLE BARRACKS — The terrain on which American soldiers fought on Guadalcanal was often so steep that wounded men had to be brought down by means of a cable, Lt. Col. A. H. Thompson, U. S. Marine Corps doctor, related recently upon his return from the Southwest Pacific. "Improvization was necessary to get wounded men back to medical stations," he explained.

BRISTOL—Officer Eugene Dugan was nipped when he tried to nab a man who had taken a nip too many. While making an arrest on an intoxication charge, Dugan was bitten by a pet dog owned by the drunk.

HARRISBURG—Over 30,000 rabbits and 2,200 ring-neck pheasants were trapped by game commission officials last winter and spring and are being released in depleted covers. The animals are being freed in the same counties in which they were trapped.

INDIANA—The end for 1,500 turkeys at the Harry and Day Nichol farm came a bit prematurely when they were "roasted" by a fire from an overheated brooder. The fire burned down the building which housed them.

HERSHEY — The Hershey Fire company has the largest volunteer membership of any fire-fighting organization in the state. It includes 1,240 men. Of this total, 351 were enrolled by H. V. Katterman alone.

LANSDALE — Borough officials are in a quandary over enforcing the new ordinance requiring license tags on all bicycles. They evidently misjudged the effect of gasoline ration and ordered only 1,000 markers, far short of the demand.

DOYLESTOWN FAIR IN SEPTEMBER CANCELLED

(International News Service)

DOYLESTOWN, July 9.—The Doylestown fair, scheduled for September, has been cancelled due to gasoline restrictions and the pleasure driving ban.

Dr. H. W. Turner of New Hope said that "we are unanimously of the opinion that it would not be patriotic at this time to run the Doylestown fair which cannot be reached by the majority of the patrons without using an automobile."

(International News Service)

LANGHORNE, July 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mucklow today boasted of five children serving in the U. S Navy.

Paul H. Mucklow, 18, enlisted in the navy joining his sister Dorothy 22, a navy nurse, and three brothers Gould, 23, a Seabee; William, 20 seaman on a destroyer, and Joseph Jr., 25, a navy fireman.

Marines Battle Through Jungle

Attack On Viru Harbor Is Related By Correspondent With U. S. Forces

(Editor's note: The storming of Viru harbor, near the southern end of New Georgia island, in the opening phases of the United States offensive in the Solomons, is colorfully described in the following dispatch from the jungle battle scene.)

By WALTER FARR
(London Daily Mail Correspondent)
(Distributed By I. N. S.)

WITH ADVANCED U. S. FORCES ON NEW GEORGIA ISLAND (delayed)—Within a few feet of me American marines and Japanese troops are fighting for a broad belt of steaming jungle.

The clash is the climax of a series of battles fought within the last few days — close-range machine-gun, mortar, grenade and rifle duels amid vegetation so dense even the powerful tropical sun cannot penetrate. Now a unit of America's toughest fighters has swung into full-scale action.

It has been a tough go for us. Either we rush a strongly-entrenched front of Jap gun positions barring the way to Viru harbor or fall back, without ammunition, food and water, into the jungle where enemy patrols hem us in on all sides.

Before the present fighting began every man was desperately exhausted after slogging for a day and a half through 35 miles of the world's worst jungle. The difficult march ended with a wild plunge through a treacherous mangrove swamp two miles broad. The men were pursued all the way by enemy patrols, were without water 24 hours and lived on concentrated food.

Nevertheless these marines, in one incredible hour of rough-and-tumble, explosive bayonet fighting cut every enemy position to pieces and closed in toward Viru.

Louder and louder through the jungle came the thrilling battle-cry of the marines as, after a final tremendous burst of gunfire, we rushed toward Viru.

A substantial enemy force abandoned everything . . . about 200 Japs were killed and 50 wounded. Another 50 jumped to their deaths on the rocks 130 feet below us.

Two Workers Put Entire War Work Pay In War Bonds

Shipyard Gasket Maker Invests All Wages Plus $10 Spaghetti Money Weekly

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Topping the records of numerous Americans who convert their entire salaries into war bonds is a Quaker City shipyard worker.

Agostino Lucciano invests all his wages as a gasket maker at Cramp's shipyard and about $10 in addition, for an average of three bonds every week since last Armistice Day.

The tasty spaghetti and other dishes that Lucciano concocts at his restaurant make it possible for him to buy bonds, which in his own mind he has dedicated to building up a three ocean navy.

Another champion war bond buyer is Charles Gabries, of Chester, a first class welder at the Sun shipbuilding and dry dock company, who converts each pay check into war bonds. He lives on his income from a parking lot.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

action in throwing the Federal Reserve out of the war-bond picture it is said that the new arrangement will utilize State pride as an asset and, through the war savings stamp staff, be more effective in getting bonds into the hand of the lower-income groups.

THE ANSWER given to that is, first, that so far as war bonds are concerned, State pride amounts to nothing at all. People buy bonds because they are a good investment and because it is a patriotic duty, but not out of State pride. As to methods of the war saving stamps staff, one of which is the extensive use of movie picture stars, the volume of its sales has been very small compared with the money obtained through the Victory Fund committees, banks and security houses, which cooperated under the discarded Federal Reserve setup. "We cannot depend," said Henry G. Bengel, a Chicago banker, "on such stunts as stripping savings stamps off Hollywood girls' legs. The war saving staff is not the crew to handle a big job like war financing. It is honeycombed with political appointees who do not know as much about selling bonds as the banks and investment houses." Few will dispute that.

IT HAS been publicly asserted that Mr. Morgenthau's decision was due to his feeling that the Federal Reserve System and the banks were getting all the credit and he was being pushed to one side. It has been further asserted that there is a feud between Mr. Marriner S. Eccles, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and himself, and he felt he could not permit Mr. Eccles to be out front in the war-financing program. These seem petty reasons for changing a successful system for one that is experimental. Yet no others that appear adequate have been advanced, and it is true that Mr. Morgenthau has not justified the change. It could be justified, of course, if the Federal Reserve setup had failed in the previous drives. But it achieved signal successes in both—raising five and one half billions more than the Treasury asked in the April drive and two billion more in the December drive.

MR. MORGENTHAU himself was greatly elated over both drives, and it was generally accepted that the organization responsible would continue. And then on the first of June it was heaved out the window. Thousands of trained men all over the country who gave up their time and, without compensation, worked night and day to put the loan over, feel rebuffed and badly treated. The Secretary's action, they say, it designed to discredit them. It implies distrust. Conscious of having done their unselfish and patriotic best, they would not be human if they did not feel resentful.

ALTOGETHER, it is an unpleasant state of affairs. Everybody wants Mr Morgenthau to succeed in the next drive, regardless of the change. Failure would not only be calamitous for him but for the country. Self-interest as well as patriotism should impel every citizen capable of contributing anything to aid to the limit of his ability, no matter how he may regard the Secretary's policies. Nevertheless, it is unfortunate that, without adequate reason or explanation, Mr. Morgenthau has seen fit to kick out a functioning organization that had done splendid work, setting up one whose capacity is yet to be proved. It would be pretty fine if, recognizing a mistake, the Secretary should act now to correct it. It would refute the critics who ascribe motives of personal pique to him and it would confound those who insist that he cannot rise above his personal dislikes. It would prove Mr. Morgenthau a bigger man than most people think him. There is still time.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

work accomplished by submarines. Early in the war they moved vital supplies into Manila bay and helped evacuate army and navy personnel from the fortress of Corregidor.

Intensification of submarine forays against Jap shipping is anticipated in the near future as more and more new undersea craft join the fleet. At the time of Pearl Harbor, the nation had 111 subs built and 73 building. Since then the latter figure probably has been increased considerably.

Although the Navy gives only the barest announcements on sinkings by American submarines, citations have given enough details to indicate countless heroic deeds by officers and crew members of the "pig boat" fleet.

One outstanding example was the death of Comdr. Howard W. Gilmore, of New Orleans, La., who was mortally wounded by machine gun fire on the deck of his submarine during an engagement with a Jap patrol boat. He was awarded the Congessional Medal of Honor posthumously.

"Members of the submarine's crew sought to carry him below, but realizing delay might cost the submarine and lives of men in exposed positions topside, Commander Gilmore ordered all hands below," the citation said.

Then he gave the order, "Take her down!" and the sub crash-dived without him.

Lieut. Comdr. Marvin G. Kennedy, of Vallejo, Cal., spotted a Jap sub on the surface in rough weather, and his undersea boat destroyed the enemy craft by torpedo fire at 800 yards before the Nip crew knew what struck them. He was awarded the Silver Star.

The Silver Star also was awarded to Lieut. John F. Walling, of Nantucket, Mass., diving officer of a submarine credited with damaging a Jap battleship of the Kongo class.

Comdr. Frank W. Fenno, Jr., of Williamsport, Pa., is in the front ranks of heroes with three Navy Crosses, a presidential unit citation foh his sub-sea craft and an army Distinguished Service Cross, the latter for transporting gold out of Corregidor under the vary noses of the Japs. His submarine was credited with torpedoing 154,000 tons of enemy shipping.

Quartermaster Richard Breckenridge, of Tacoma, Wash., was given the Navy Cross for courageously risking being drowned by remaining in the conning tower to close a jammed hatch when a submarine crash dived to escape the Japs.

Lieut. Comdr. William Ferrall, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and his undersea ship sank 10 valuable Jap transports and supply vessels on patrols in the Far East.

These are merely a few examples of the many acts of heroism and daring performed by men of the submarine fleet. They are constantly on the prowl from the icy, fog-bound waters of the North Pacific to the steaming Indian ocean.

Hints On Etiquette

Don't talk about your worries and griefs. Every one has their own troubles, especially now. Be cheerful and use your sympathy for those who need it more than you do.

Country Club Has Garden Battle

GROVE CITY, July 9.—Competition is so keen among the 21 members of the Grove City Country club who have victory gardens paralleling No. 2 fairway that social ostracism faces the gardener who permits a weed to appear on his 50x30 foot plot.

Two gardens are models of neatness, and record crops are assured because of the fertile land, which had for years been planted to soybeans to enrich the soil. No early crops will be harvested, since plantings were late. Every known variety of garden vegetable is included in the area, with potatoes most popular.

New York Man Faces Charges As Japanese Agent

Copy Reader On New York Newspaper Is Accused Of Writing Jap Articles

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Frederick Heizer Wright, a copy reader and former night telegraph editor of the New York Daily News, was expected to surrender to federal authorities today to answer an indictment charging that before Pearl Harbor he was an unregistered paid agent of the Japanese imperial government.

Wright was indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury charged with conspiracy and with failing to notify the state department of his employment by the Japanese. He faces a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment and $10,000 fine if convicted.

The government charges Wright, 41-year-old native of St Louis, Mo., and a member of the News editorial staff for 16 years, received $300 to $400 a month for writing speeches, articles and press releases for Japanese officials. The indictment charges he worked for the Japanese for a ten-year period His employment by the Japanese ended, federal agents said, on Dec. 6, 1941, the day before the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor.

His work for the Japanese was kept secret, F B. I. men said, and none of the executives or his fellow workers on the News had knowledge of his pro-Japanese activities.

In the conspiracy count of the indictment Wright is alleged to have agreed with Japanese officials to write articles on Japanese subjects and submit them for publication in "The News" and "Sunday News" and in other newspapers through the News syndicate, according to U. S. District Attorney Howard F. Corcoran. This was to be done without knowledge of his newspaper superiors that the articles were Japanese propaganda.

If our boys must fight in the far north, can't we learn from the Russians how to keep them from freezing?

RADIO WARNING GIVEN TO FRANCE

French Housewives Told To Get In At Least Month's Stock Of Food

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9—French housewives were warned today in a significant announcement by the British radio to get in at least a month's supply of food stocks because a difficult period in which transport supplies will be disorganized is coming.

The radio warning presaged early action by the Allies against German-operated communications.

The admonition by the British Broadcasting Company was in line with Allied promises that the French would be forewarned of any military measures which inconvenience them or call for their cooperation. The BBC repeatedly has told the subjugated Frenchmen that they will receive adequate warning before invasion forces go ashore.

Previous warnings to the French to remove themselves from important war production centers have been followed almost immediately by devastating Allied bombardments.

The Reuter News Agency received reports from neutral circles via Switzerland that French housewives already are buying up all available stocks of foodstuffs and this fact led to the possibility that warnings of a blow against communications already have been circulated through the underground.

Reuter said also that important German troop movements are occurring in France. Whole trains packed with troops and vehicles were said to be passing through Lyons daily en route to Southern France.

Boxing Carnival Committee To Meet

Committees are now appointed, a plan of work has been outlined, and the matter of getting a substantial sum of money for the Deshon General Hospital in Butler is now under way. The means of raising the money will be a boxing carnival to be held Friday night, July 30.

A general meeting of the executive committee and committee chairmen will be held Tuesday night, July 13 at 8 o'clock in the office of the Greater New Castle Association. At this time the complete plan will be presented to the committees.

The money raised from the boxing carnival will be turned over to the hospital in Butler for use in purchasing needed entertainment and recreational equipment.

Even our present effort might be enough if some real executive could end red tape, confusion, waste effort and mismanagement.

Police Will Halt Cliff Climbing

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Police at Pittsburgh's No. 2 station today intended to stop youthful "mountain climbing" after rescue of, 12-year-old Frankie Ruscito from the same cliff from which young Philip Doyle slipped and was killed three days ago.

Frankie, scared but unhurt, yesterday was taken from a precarious rock ledge 30 feet down the cliff, and sent to juvenile court, but not as a penalty but as a warning to himself and other boys to stay away from the steep drop.

The Doyle boy, 13, son of a Pittsburgh policeman, was killed Tuesday while playing on an incline 200 feet above the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks.

WAACs will get first choice of husbands after the war. Their training improves their figures, their carriage and their poise.

Full Fury Of Jap Defense Not Yet Contacted

So Declares Major Raborg In Discussing Recent Naval Victory

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
Written Especially For International News Service

NEW YORK, July 9—Nipponese warriors seem to be more concerned about dying well for their Emperor rather than fighting well for him. Battles are not won by dying. This fanatical trait is developing into perhaps the greatest weakness of the Japanese war machine.

The most recent victory of Admiral Halsey's fighting warships in the waters of the Solomon Islands, is again a commentary to our naval strategy, our sea commanders, and the efficiency of our battle fleets.

Proves Superior U. S. Ability

Once again the battle of Kula Gulf has proved the superior gunnery and seamanship of United States naval units. They have outshot and out-maneuvered the Japanese in every combat.

A most interesting phase of the Kula battle is that its first part, when four to five fast Nipponese destroyers were sunk, was during the darkness of night. It was there totally a naval action. The air arm did not enter into it. This demonstrates that as yet combat action has some limitations and, furthermore, that, so far in this war, it must be fought by the great combat teams which consist of land, sea, and air.

This is in no depreciation of our air forces. They will save hundreds of thousands of lives in coming battles and perform miracles of transportation. However, battles such as have just occurred in the Kula Gulf should make the past critics of the brass hats of our armies and navies hang their heads in abject shame.

It seems that the Japanes flotilla, which entered Kula Gulf by way of its narrowest approach, sailed straight into a trap. Its purpose was to reinforce their beleagured garrison at Munda airfield. Even though that base's value to the Nipponese had disappeared the moment our troops landed on Rendova Island and Viru Harbor, and our warships entered the Kula Gulf, why were the war lords of the Empire of the Rising Sun willing to pay such a frightful cost in an attempt to reinforce a lost possession?

It becomes more and more apparent that, when the Japanese face a crucial situation, be it on land, sea, or in the air, their units and men seem figuratively to drop their heads and dive in blindly. This is probably because their religion teaches them they must die well for their Emperor. In this case their Emperor was not disappointed.

But in spite of this most recent and great victory of ours, and notwithstanding the fact that if that ratio of loss was maintained the Japanese fleets might soon be at the bottom of the sea, it must be realized that few people visualize as yet the awful seriousness of our war in the Pacific.

Definitely the worst is yet to come. Our most recent battle is probably entirely against a local Japanese task force. When the United Nations attack Japanese land objectives that are vital to the future life of the Empire of the Rising Sun, then and then only will we see the full fury of Nipponese defense.

St. Paul's Baptist Church Seeking To Raise Funds For Church

CURTIS V. HOLLAND

On Friday evening, July 16, at 8:15 o'clock, Curtis V. Holland, noted baritone from Fisk university, Nashville, Tenn., will be presented in a program at St. Paul's Baptist church, 614 West North street.

Benefits from this program will be applied on the long-past-due mortgage of St. Paul's church. Rev. H. W. Wheeler, pastor of the church, announces that the church has paid more than $750 on taxes and interest this year and wants $800 on or before October 1 of this year. The recital will be open to the public.

Elks Commandos Start Salvage Drive In City

Members Of Junior Organization Aiding War Effort Rewarded For Brass Drive

Spearheading another salvage drive, which is expected to net many tons of brass, copper and bronze, throughout the nation, the Elks Junior Commandos, under the leadership of Col. Katherine M. Christofer, brought in virtually a half ton of these precious metals yesterday, and were rewarded for their efforts with a special matinee at the Penn theater Thursday morning when they were shown a splendid picture through the courtesy of Manager Glenn J. Bell.

Mrs. Christofer was assisted in the conduct of the campaign and in chaperoning the Commandos by her captains.

The money received from the sale of this salvaged brass, copper and bronze will be used by the Commandos in the purchase of some needed equipment for the children's wards of the Jameson Memorial and New Castle hospitals.

According to Mr. Bell, these special matinees will be conducted each week in some one of the local theaters for the children of the city who will be granted admission upon the presentation of brass, bronze or copper in this nationwide salvage campaign for these metals, now being conducted through the motion picture theaters of the country.

Now it's our bombers against German fighters until one side cracks. And we'll need bombers that can take more punishment.

What mysterious force bosses the Army? Who can demote men without explanation because they fought in Spain?

Attacks Cause of ATHLETE'S FOOT
Athlete's Foot is caused by a fungus that grows in the skin like a weed in a garden. Some athlete's foot remedies do as much damage to the skin as to the fungus. They act by peeling the skin to reach the disease. Duett—a 2-bottle method—brings quick relief because it attacks the fungus actually responsible for the condition. Cracked toes heal right up—itching stops almost at once. Even stubborn cases usually show quick improvement.

GEN. GIRAUD TO SEEK TO SMOOTH TROUBLED WATERS

Will Publicly Emphasize Fact Visit To U. S. Is Purely Military

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Gen. Henri Giraud, commander-in-chief of the French North African forces, today will try to calm the troubled French political waters by publicly emphasizing that the purpose of his current visit to the United States is purely military.

The French military leader is scheduled to hold a news conference during the day. Sources close to him said he will issue a prepared statement stressing the military nature of his visit.

The fact that Gen. Giraud's visit to Washington has coincided with reports of a growing anti-American and anti-British attitude among the Fighting French has, however, tended to center attention on the political aspect of the French situation.

According to the reports received in official quarters, the Fighting French in North Africa are now asserting that the United States and Great Britain are interfering with French sovereignty.

This charge apparently is based on the recent Anglo-American move to prevent Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Fighting French leader, from gaining control of the French North African army.

Meanwhile, the American government also is trying to arrange for the departure from Martinique of Admiral Georges Robert, who has signified willingness to relinquish his post as high commissioner of the French West Indies.

This government wants to make sure that the $250,000,000 worth of French gold stored in Martinique remains safe, and that the six French tankers and two merchant ships remain at anchor in the harbor when Admiral Robert leaves his post.

REPORT VICHY GOVERNMENT IS URGED TO MOVE

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 9.—Nazi authorities in occupied France are pressing the Vichy government to move to Versailles to avoid an expected coup d'etat in event of an Allied invasion, a Berne dispatch to the Daily Telegraph said today.

New reports meanwhile reached London and growing unrest in France resulting from the deportation of French workers to Germany.

According to a Daily Mail dispatch from somewhere on the French frontier, a group of French women protesting at the departure of French workers them themselves in front of a train about to start off for Germany. When police were called in to clear the track of its human rampart, it was said many of the officers were injured.

Crowds in the station carried banners proclaiming "Down with Laval."

The dispatch reported that the regime of chief of government Pierre Laval was becoming alarmed as the threat of open revolution rapidly grows.

Ellwood City Car Stolen Last Night

As the two-tone blue '41 Chevrolet two-door, five-passenger coupe, with license number B-4864, was parked in front of the Carl Kocher garage, on the Ellwood-New Castle road at 10:15 Thursday evening while the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kocher, of Ellwood City, were in the garage for a few minutes, the car was stolen.

The car, parked headed towards New Castle, was driven out onto the road by the thief without lights on, nearly wrecking another car coming down the road, picked up three children who were waiting across the road, and drove off in the direction of New Castle, according to the eye-witness account of residents of a house opposite, who were sitting on their porch.

Ellwood, New Castle and state police have been notified, but the stolen car had not been located at 11 o'clock this morning.

MORE DEFIANCE FROM PETRILLO

President Of Musicians' Union Continues Defiance Of U. S. Agencies

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Continuing nis defiance of government agencies, James C. Petrillo, president of the AFL musicians' union, today told the War Labor Board that his 10,000 musicians would make no more recordings for radio transcription.

"The party is over, we quit," Petrillo told the board, adding, "and it is our constitutional right not to work if we don't want to."

In a jaunty and defiant manner the powerful king of the music makers, told board Chairman William L. Davis that the WLB had no jurisdiction over the musicians refusal to make records for seven transcription companies, because it is not a labor dispute.

The "strike" of the musicians was referred to the War Labor Board last week by Secretary of Labor Perkins. Today's hearing was called to determine whether the board actually did have jurisdiction in the long-standing feud between the recording companies and the musicians.

Petrillo's ban against record-making has been previously denounced by members of the House and Senate, the Office of War Information and other federal agencies.

OWI Director Elmer Davis charged that the union's refusal to make recordings was affecting the morale of the soldiers and sailors because of no new records for short wave to army camps and for use in "juke" boxes.

Petrillo ordered the "strike" because he said the making of "canned music" was depriving the musicians of jobs.

Stock Buying Program As Viewed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1943, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

NEW YORK CITY, July 9.—Subject to minor corrections, we have had a bull market for some fourteen months. It is not yet time to forecast how high the stock market will eventually go. It is clear, however that considerably higher averages will ultimately be attained. Further favorable prices are assured by powerful underlying forces. Among these is the fact that one way to compensate increased living costs, occasioned by inflation, is through buying good stocks. How to do this is the basis of my article today.

BABSON

War Bonds Vs. Stocks

Small investors with only a few thousand dollars should NOW stick to war savings bonds and NOW steer clear of the stock market. Many wise investors or professional stock speculators would be satisfied with a sure 33 1-3 per cent increase in their capital over a period of ten years, which gain the Series E bonds will give not considering interest. To obtain such a gain otherwise NOW more than the usual businessman's risk may be incurred.

Through the medium of both Series E and F war savings bonds, all investors, large and small, can automatically increase their capital. There is no risk to these appreciation bonds which, bought at a discount, will, upon maturity, return 33 1-3 per cent more than they cost. I get provoked at some New Deal measures, but I certainly believe these short war bonds to be both a safe investment and a good speculation. I say the latter because there may be some great panic bargains before the time these ten-year bonds mature. People with very little money should buy stocks only during panics.

What To Buy?

Usually it is better for the small investor to confine his purchases to stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. Generally speaking, nearly all stocks will rise to some extent in a bull market. For the purpose of this article therefore, let us assume that the trend of the market is definitely up and consider certain basic rules that govern successful investing.

(1) Depressed stocks. These come first in order. They should represent well-established companies selling for less than the amount of their working capital per share. In such situations, the investor is buying net current assets at a discount and paying nothing for the equipment, earning power, or for the experience and ability of the management. Mack Truck and certain auto accessory companies illustrate this test.

(2) Dividend stocks. No well-balanced portfolio is complete without a backlog of dividend-paying stocks. To be really safe, earnings should—over a normal term of years—amount to nearly twice the established dividend rate in the company selected. Yield and stability are the factors most sought for in this group. But at the same time one can be assured that such stocks will not lag behind in any bull market. Gulf Oil, Monsanto and certain chemicals illustrate this test.

(3) Low labor cost stocks. A large number of labor union employees, if headed by unwise labor leaders, make many otherwise attractive companies poor investments. One reason why I have not liked the rail stocks, as a group, is because of the enormous amount of organized labor it takes to run the railroads. As a direct opposite of these stocks, fire insurance stocks appeal to me. They are not much involved with labor unions, and, in proportion to the volume of their business, employ very little help.

(4) Diversified stocks. Investors should, moreover, pay attention to long growth companies. Good management cannot be emphasized too much. One hundred per cent equity is also always wise to consider. In other words, select companies without bonds or cumulative preferred stocks ahead of the common. Do not be misled by technical and lengthy "write ups" of individual companies. Diversification is a good guide to good stocks. Lehman Corporation appears to qualify under this classification.

When To Buy?

There is a factor of timing involved in the buying of stocks which is most important. In my estimate of timing I am entirely disregarding the averages and the chart readers. Today, the so-called peace stocks are examples of timing in buying. These may represent almost any company that has not profited as a direct result of the war.

I cannot here name individual issues; but, as a group, grocery chains are worth considering. Others may include building supplies companies, certain publishing companies, automobile and personal financing companies, certain utilities and various farm equipment and produce companies. Many peace stocks have chalked up impressive gains, but in the main they have a lot further to go. Whatever may temporarily happen to the market during the next few months, I believe this is a safe time for many investors to buy a diversified number of listed stocks which pass at least one of the above four tests.

Mail Goes Through To New Guinea

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—"Neither wind, nor rain, nor gloom of night" stops the army air forces from delivering the mail to advanced positions in New Guinea.

In a report from First Lieut Hayes D. Brown, of Wiggins, Miss. pilot of the first air mail plane, the war department said today that sacks of mail were dropped from tree-top levels into jungle clearings.

"The troops had been told we were on our way, so they were waiting in clearings when I flew over the trees at an elevation of about 100 feet and tossed the sacks overboard," Lieut. Brown said. "There were about two letters for every man."

Rain After Battles Is Plan, Not Result

Weather Bureau Executive Explodes 'Battles Cause Rainfall' Theory

(International News Service)

READING, July 9.—The popular theory that battles raging on the warfronts cause heavy rainfall was exploded recently by Charles F. Sarle, executive assistant in scientific service for the weather bureau in Washington.

The belief, which has been in vogue since the days of Plutarch, nearly 1,900 years ago, was revived in the rainly season this spring, as many persons recalled unusual rainfall during World War I and a few remembered the same phenomenon during the Civil War period.

In answer to a query Sarle wrote that the rains which often follow military action come from a perfect natural cause. Since battles must be planned and begun in dry weather, he explained, the chance that the following few days will be rainy is greatly increased.

The weather expert recalled that the question has been subjected to many serious scientific tests, which failed to produce rain. Only in a few isolated instances where unusual energy in produced, as in a widespread forest fire or the explosion of volcanoes will rain result, he said. Even then a very limited area will be affected.

PLAN NEW AIR ROUTE FROM DUTCH W. INDIES

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—A new air route, providing the first regular service from the United States to the Netherlands West Indies, soon will be inaugurated by K. L. M., Royal Dutch Air Lines.

According to an announcement by the lines' New York office, the planes will operate from the islands to Miami, Fla. The exact starting date of the new mail route was not revealed for security reasons, but service is to begin in the near future.

HUGE LINER MAY SOON BE RIGHTED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Possibility that the 82,423 ton U. S. S. LaFayette, formerly the luxury liner Normandie, will be righted—perhaps within two weeks—with considerable pomp and ceremony was seen today in extensive activity around its pier.

The huge liner, which burned and capsized at its Hudson river berth on February 9, 1942, has lain on its side while hundreds of Navy divers and civilian shipworkers sealed bulkheads and laid preliminary groundwork for its righting.

Significant is the erection of a 400-foot observation deck overlooking the berth. The deck, for the use of newspapermen and Army and Navy officials, is to be completed by July 15 lending credence to reports that the ship's righting will be attempted shortly after that date.

Car Shortage Piles Up Grain

GARDEN CITY, Kan., July 9.—Thousands of bushels of fine quality wheat are accumulating in big piles in farm yards throughout western Kansas, due to a growing shortage of railroad cars, a survey disclosed today.

The harvest season still has two weeks remaining and the price of wheat is the highest in 15 years but the highways usually crowded with heavily loaded trucks of wheat now are virtually deserted.

Every granary in western Kansas is expected to be filled before the harvest season ends.

SEND PACK TANKS TO GROVE CITY

GROVE CITY, July 9.—With arrival at civilian defense headquarters here of pack tanks for extinguishing incendiary bombs and small fires, officials face the task of training a fire brigade large enough to use the equipment. There are only 310 certified defense workers in all units, and only 15 in the fire watcher unit which will form the nucleus of the brigade.

It is planned to assign five groups, each consisting of four or five men to each air raid post, when the personnel can be trained in the use of the pack tanks. The portable pumps will spray water a distance of 35 feet.

Use Gold To Pave Streets

Correspondent Tells Of Road Building On "Forgotten Island"

TELLS MORE FACTS ABOUT ARMY POST

By ART COHN
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 9.—Dear Boss: When St. Peter takes me by the hand and welcomes me to his fair city I will have to warn him, "Forgive me if I'm not impressed, old boy, but this is not the first time I've walked on streets paved with gold."

And I will tell him of the time I was on this tiny atoll in the Coral Sea, a place I call Forgotten Island.

Use Gold Ore

"There were no roads when we came here last October," the commanding officer of its U. S. Army unit was telling me, "so we had to build them. The only material strong enough we could find for a base was ore from a deserted gold mine, so we used that."

There's irony—a band of men without meat, vegetables, milk, soft drinks, liquor, movies, phonograph, plumbing, canteen or baths walking on roads paved with gold.

But, as the C. O. was telling his men last night, "there isn't another outfit in the army that can go back home and tell more lies than you men."

It is a fabulous isle.

Two of the boys went fishing in a 12-foot boat the other day. One of them caught a shark on his line. Instead of letting go he held on and they had the ride of their lives. For more than two hours the shark, a powerful 20-footer, towed them from one island to another.

Stream-Lined Camp

There was nothing but swamps, forests, crocodiles, lizards, mosquitoes and wild orchids on this island when they came. Today it is a streamlined camp not unlike some of America's better dude ranches. Not including menus.

The boys built it with their own hands.

"We borrowed a stick of wood here and another there," Tony Duras of Lodi, N. J., tells. "We got a break when we found an evacuated Japanese home. We borrowed just about everything from it, including the floors. We figured they wouldn't be coming back anyway."

Their closest neighbors are a small band of aborigines who worthem. In turn they have the greatest respect for the abos.

Morale High

"They'll do what we wouldn't," Sergeant Bob Fisher of Boston, the cook of the outfit, was saying. "They'll go down to the beach in pairs, one will hold a flashlight and the other, knee-deep in water, will shoot fish with a bow and arrow. We are not allowed near the water . . . sharks and crocodiles."

No outfit in th earmy has higher morale.

"There have been only two fist fights since we came here," the C. O. was telling me, "and they were in the first couple of weeks. Today it's one for all and all for one.

"A Georgia rebel shares a tent with a damyankee from New York and they old me they didn't want any leave until it could be arranged they could go together."

That is the spirit of Forgotten Island.

That is the spirit of your army.

Those boys have a job to do and they're doing it. Without squawking. Without going on strike. You see, they have learned to go without.

Yours, A. C.

P. S.—I forgot to mention that 75 per cent of the unit on Forgotten Island signed up to buy a War Bond every pay day.

Thanksgiving Day Set For 1944

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 9—Thanksgiving will not be observed on the last Thursday of November next year, the traditional date.

Instead, by direction of Gov. Edward Martin, the fourth Thursday of the month will be celebrated, the same date as that designated by congress in 1941. November will have five Thursdays in 1944.

Pennsylvania will comply "in the interest of uniformity," the chief executive explained, his action contrasting sharply with that taken by his predecessor, former Gov. Arthur H. James, who differed on several occasions with President Roosevelt. During the James regime, Pennsylvania twice observed Thanksgiving Day on two different occasions.

CAMP STEWART MEN STUDYING JAPANESE

(International News Service)

CAMP STEWART, Ga.—Evidently the boys at Camp Stewart intend to move into Tokyo—the Japanese language is becoming as popular there as judo.

Organized some weeks ago, the first class is waiting for advanced material from Washington while the second class gets under way. Completion of the second level will mean a speaking knowledge of some 1,200 to 1,500 Jap words and phrases, according to Miss Geraldine LeMay, librarian who fostered the classes.

Pvt. Irving Suhl, who speaks several other foreign languages, did not know a word of Japanese when he began, but he has been made the official instructor of the new class.

FARMS AND FARMERS OF LAWRENCE COUNTY

GET STRAWBERRY PATCH READY FOR 1944 CROP

Is the strawberry patch worth carrying over for a second crop, or should it be plowed under after the first harvest?

With fertile soil comparatively free from weeds and with a good stand of vigorous healthy plants, satisfactory results may be expected in renewing the patch. Under opposite conditions, it is not likely to be worth while. It is seldom, if ever, advisable to hold a planting beyond the second picking season.

When renewing a patch for a second crop, the object should be to destroy most of the plants which have fruited and save just enough to produce a full row of new runner plants for next year's crop.

Soon after the harvest season, mow the tops rather high, removing most of old leaves and avoiding injury to the crowns. Rake up the leaves and any remaining mulch and remove from the patch.

Broadcast on top of the rows a liberal amount of commercial fertilizer. An application of 400 to 600 pounds to the acre of a complete fertilizer, such as 4-12-4, may be used.

Drive on top of the row with a spring-tooth harrow or other cultivator to dig out many of the plants and loosen the soil in the row. One or two trips in the same direction over the row should be enough. Narrow the row to 8 to 12 inches with the cultivator. If the ground is very dry, it may be wise to omit digging on top of the row with the harrow, but in this case after the row is narrowed to 8 to 12 inches the soil in the row can be loosened with a heavy hoe or mattock.

Thoroughly cultivate the middles, dress up the remaining plants with a hoe, leaving individual plants spaced 6 to 12 inches apart, and tend the patch for the rest of the season as though it were a first-year planting.

Strawberry culture is more completely discussed in the Pennsylvania State College extension circular 181, "Strawberry Growing in Pennsylvania" which is available from the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

SUMMER VENTILATION IS AID TO COMFORT FOR HENS

To keep them laying, give the hens plenty of air in warm weather, Comfortable quarters in the summer will help the layers to maintain a profitable flow of eggs.

Since the poultry house is used the year around, it should be so constructed that it will provide protection against heat in summer and cold in winter. Sometimes this is accomplished by insulation. In every case, however, cross-ventilation over the floor and about the birds on the roost helps provide more comfort in summer.

With most poultry houses ventilated from the front, opening wide both windows and ventilators in the front is a part of summer ventilation. Rear windows provide cross-ventilation, over the floor. Two such windows in a 20-foot pen provide ample light and air. In insulated buildings, a rear rafter ventilator will help cross-currents of air to drive out of the house the hot air which accumulates under the roof.

In some buildings it may be good management to remove glass windows, or arrange them to prevent the sun shining on the glass and further radiating heat into the building in warm weather.

Poultry extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College recommend separation of the droppings boards into sections to permit better air circulation about the fowls on the roosts during warm summer nights. Air circulation also is promoted by building the entire roosting platform so that it can be moved forward about 6 inches from the wall. When pits are provided, roosts are placed best about a foot above the pit.

Egg size, as well as production, can be affected by extreme heat. Good ventilating conditions provide greater comfort and better health, both of which are reflected in the size of the egg yield.

PLANNING SAVES TIME IN HOME CANNING DAY

There's a lot of home management in home-canning, says Mrs. Fred L. Taylor, home economics extension representative, Lawrence county. The homemaker who plans her time and work finds that she can save minutes and energy.

Home-canning and other methods of food preservation are going to take a good share of the homemaker's time this year. Before she begins the actual process of canning, there are certain things she must do first. One of these is to check every piece of needed equipment to see that it is in good working condition. This includes the pressure cooker, boiling water bath, glass jars and lids, eliminating any jars or lids that are defective.

A second thing to do is to be sure there is enough equipment assembled and ready for use before the actual canning process begins.

Enough working surface free for supplies and equipment is a third thing to check. These must be so arranged that the least amount of time and energy are required to do the work. A separate table on casters is convenient, she points out.

In order that fruit and vegetables may go from the garden to the can in the shortest time possible, gather the products after all other preparations are completed. Store each day's canned products after they have cooled. Label jars and record the amount of each fruit and vegetable canned. Few homemakers will have an oversupply, but some may not get a good balance in variety canned.

Remember that a few extra jars of fruits or vegetables may be used as a gift for a special occasion or for someone less fortunate than you.

A copy of "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home", a circular from Pennsylvania State college, may be secured upon request at the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office building.

COLLEGE HAS COURSES FOR STUDY AT HOME

In these days when nearly everyone has work to do and travel is restricted, the correspondence courses in agriculture and home economics provided by the Pennsylvania State college can help the student who wants to continue education but finds it impossible to attend college. Both old and young can learn by this process.

The college has 48 of these correspondence courses which cover a wide range of subjects.

Livestock, dairy and poultry are included. The newest course is on rabbits for meat, a timely and popular subject. All kinds of field crops can be studied. Some of the courses give information on general plant production, as well as fertilizer and soil conservation.

Courses are available on fruits, flowers and vegetables. For the women, there is a timely course on canning and preserving. Other home economics courses include food selection and preparation, house furnishing, clothing and table service.

On the business side of farming, the courses cover such subjects as farm bookkeeping, farm management, marketing and agricultural cooperation. Among the miscellaneous courses are tile drainage, farm chemistry, bacteriology, farm forestry, bookkeeping and building materials.

For application blank, write to Correspondence Courses in Agriculture and Home Economics, Agricultural Education building, State College, Pa.

JULY IS THE MONTH FOR CUTTING PULP WOOD

Pulp wood production is necessary to maintain the output of paper and paper products. Although there are no pulpwood mills in Lawrence county, some owners of woodlands may be interested in pulpwood production. Bark must be peeled from pulpwood before shipping, and peeling is best done during June and July.

Anyone interested in information concerning the production of pulpwood may secure information about it from the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office building, New Castle.

At Y. W. Camp

This evening at dinner time, campers at Camp East Brook will have a costume birthday party in honor of two campers, Betty Ledde and Joan Murphy. A prize is to be awarded the girl with the most original costume.

An amateur program has been arranged for this evening with Gladys Henderson, music counselor, as master of ceremonies.

Regular activities were carried out during the day. Some of the girls started the day with an outdoor nature hike and breakfast this morning with Anna Marie Quinn and Georgianna Truby in charge.

A cabin council is being organized and was to meet for the first time today.

Texas Sergeant Collects 612 Army Insignias

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—Sergeant Albert Johnson, 31, of Fort Worth, Tex., boasts one of the largest collections of army insignia in the world.

Now stationed at Camp Kohler near Sacramento, Sgt. Johnson has amassed 612 insignias and crests during his army career. He said he started his hobby while at Fort Bliss, Tex., where a fellow soldier had 20 insignias pinned on a towel. He bought the collection, towel and all, and has since added to it. The largest group in his collection was obtained in the Philippines where he was stationed for 28 months. In order to get the real insignia of the second machine gun squadron of a Philippine outfit, he had to purchase a group of 185 insignias.

Although vauled at $1,000, Sgt. Johnson estimates he has spent nearly $5,000 in collecting the insignias.

DES MOINES, Ia.—Pointing out that "many Iowans are not aware that rattlesnakes are common in some parts of the state, the Iowa State Conservation Commission today reported that two Winterset hunters, Ancil Field and E. A. Pullman, recently brought 15 rattlesnakes to Winterset. All were killed along Cedar creek, northwest of town, in a few hours.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER TIRE FILLS FARM DEMANDS

(International News Service)

AKRON, O.—Synthetic rubber tires made from alcohol today are rolling off the production lines at the Firestone Rubber company's Akron rubber plants, their destination—the farms of America.

Designed primarily for use as tractor tires, the new synthetic tires require nearly 600 pounds of corn to make the butadiene from which the synthetic processes stem.

Although similar synthetics previously have been used by Firestone in tires and in hundreds of other products, this is the first time that a complete operation starting with grain and ending with synthetic rubber was carried through with the exclusion of all other synthetics in the manufacture of tractor tires.

New Insignia For Army Aircraft

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The war department today announced adoption of a new insignia for army aircraft to prevent its confusion with German and Japanese symbols.

The new insignia will consist of the present white star on a circular blue field, a white rectangle attached horizontally at the right and left of the circle, and a red border encircling the entire device.

Tests by the proving ground command disclosed that Japan's red dot and Germany's black cross superimposed on a wider white cross tended to blur in the heat of air combat. The new army symbol is visible at 60 per cent greater range than the old air force or present enemy insignias.

Health Talks

DIET

The doctors recently made an analysis of the diet of a large number of people.

These were not poor people. They were rich people. They could buy anything they wanted. They thought they were well fed.

They did not feed themselves very well. The most of them ate too much fat. They did not get enough water.

The calorie is the unit of measure for the nourishment in food. A large glass of milk is worth 100 calories. One egg is about the same. A slice of bread or a pat of butter make 100 calories.

These people did not get enough calories.

They were low on thiamin and riboflavin. These are big words to name certain vitamins.

It means that they did not eat enough cereals, milk, vegetables and fruit.

They needed more bread made from enriched flour.

Some brewers yeast mixed in with soup would have helped a lot.

Let's be realistic. The question is not what should be done with post-war Germany, but what can be done.

Declare Birds Make Attacks On Cherry Trees

It has been reported by folks on the old Pittsburgh road that birds have "gobbled" almost all the cherries from off the trees in that location.

The depredations on the fruit started when it was just taking on the pink color. Robins, thrashers, cat birds and even crows swoop down upon the trees from the woods in flocks. A lady out there states that she finally went into competition with the birds and got enough cherries to fill three jars; many of the birds remainded in the trees helping themselves during her presence. Generally several bushels of cherries are picked from these trees.

A neighbor who has a raspberry patch states that birds have also been picking off the raspberries in great fashion, and attempt to stay on the bushes while folks are gathering the fruit.

One of the residents states that for over 20 years she does not remember birds taking the cherries like they have done this year. Similar reports come from the west side.

Evidently these birds are short on some of their ordinary rations at this time, or are they in league with the Nazis to make it tough for us?

DISEASE DEATH RATE IN ARMY IS LOWEST ON RECORD

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—Modern medical treatment has reduced the death rate from disease in the American army to the lowest of any army in history, while blood plasma, the sulfa drugs and "excellent surgery" saved the lives of all but 2½ to 3½ per cent of the wounded in evacuation hospitals in North Africa, Major General Norman T. Kirk asserted today.

General Kirk, newly appointed surgeon general of the United States, told reporters at a press conference, however, that despite these advances the army had a problem with psychiatric cases, which were "still too high" among medical cases sent home from the battle fronts.

He also declared that the army is short about 7,000 doctors and needs 24,000 nurses. And, although $270,000,000 was spent on medical supplies, including those under lend-lease during the last fiscal year, more surgical instruments are needed.

NEW DUFFLE BAGS

(International News Service)

JERSEY CITY—The Army Quartermaster's Depot has simplified the problem of the over-seas bound doughboy. The soldier bound for New Guinea, Algiers or Liverpool used to tote two duffle bags but now carries only one. It is about a third larger than the old bag, similar to that used by the Marine Corps.

SAILOR WEARS VARIETY OF SERVICE UNIFORMS

(International News Service)

NEW BERN, N. C. — Forrest Durkee, pharmacist's mate third class, USN, has probably set a record for the number of different kinds of military uniforms he has worn during past months.

When he entered the Navy, he received the regulation uniform, but while on duty off North Africa, his ship was torpedoed one morning as he slept.

Rescued in his birthday suit, Durkee was lent a German officer's uniform, a French officer's hat and native sandals. Later he was given a United States Army uniform, which he wore back home.

On duty with the Marines at Cherry Point, he now wears a Marine uniform.

GROUND BROKEN FOR COMPLETE NEW TOWN

(International News Service)

JOHNSVILLE, July 9.—Ground for a 1200-unit war housing project has been broken in Warminster township, Bucks county, to provide for a new "village" of 5000 population, nearly double the size of near-by Hatboro.

The project is for employes of Brewster Aeronautical Corporation's Johnsville division and when completed will be a complete community, including stores, waterworks and a school accommodating 600 pupils.

"WHITEY" NICKUM IN MOVIE SHORT

Pfc. Charles K. Nickum, better known here as "Whitey" Nickum from the time he was a member of the class of '35 at Ne-Ca-Hi and a member of the high school football team, is plainly recognizable as one of a group of soldiers in a scene in a railroad coach in the March of Time "Invasion" short which started yesterday at a local movie house. He is in the foreground of one scene.

Pfc. Nickum is stationed at Fort Myer, Va., and is at present assigned to traffic detail at the new Pentagon building in Washington, D. C.

Many of the autographs were secured from the players by Gene's aunt, Miss Betty Schury, who clerks at Webster Hall in Pittsburgh, where the players come to eat, and the balance by Pete Coscarart, one of the players. Miss Schury sent the ball to her nephew.

TO PRODUCE LESS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—Allegheny county farmers this year will produce and sell less than half the number of cattle and calves raised and marketed in 1942, the Allegheny County War Board said today.

Completing a survey of activities of 909 of the county's 1,500 farms, the board, however, found the dairy cow population on the increase as well as market production of hogs, chickens for meat, and chickens for eggs. The number of sheep and lambs raised for meat this year will be cut, the report showed.

If he says America can win the war without his help, the law should add, "and get along without you as a citizen".

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 9—Claude T. Reno, of Allentown, will be returned to the State Superior Court by the Republicans if the political truism that "sitting judges are always elected" continues. Able and well liked, the 67-year-old jurist was placed on the bench by former Gov. Arthur H. James last December as a reward for four years of faithful service as attorney general. Inasmuch as the election of a Democrat to the Appellate Courts is a rarity, the present G. O. P. majority in the state is expected to be sufficient to assure his election. Judge Curtis Bok, of Philadelphia, has been selected by the Democrats to oppose Reno. Bok, 46, was appointed to the Common Pleas bench in 1937 by former Gov. George H Earle. His term expires in 1948.

State policemen assigned to the governor's office were slightly suspicious of a youth who had been walking through the reception room to the portico and disappearing for several minutes. Investigation disclosed that he was a soda clerk who used part of his lunch hour to feed two nesting squabs, apparently abandoned. In another section of the capitol, a pigeon selected the broad wings of the American eagle to protect her nest while hatching her young.

The game commissioner's plea for hunter's to save the grease from game killed during the season, as well as deerskins, is expected to prompt sportsmen to top their totals established last year. The drive netted more than 7000 deerskins which were used to make approximately 28,000 pairs of gloves and 94 tons of grease. The commission estimated the grease was sufficient to produce 752,000 anti-aircraft shells of .37MM calibre, or 940,000 anti-tank shells of the same calibre of 1,880,000 rounds of .50 calibre ammunition. In other states, sportsmen added elk hides to their campaign to save animal skins and thus were able to top Pennsylvania's 7000 total. However, the state was outranked only by such big-game hunting states as Wisconsin, which reported 25,000 hides, Minnesota, 35,000 skins, and Utah, 20,450.

After almost 10 years, the Public Utility Commission still does not see an end to its investigation of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, of Allentown, serving more than 174,000 customers in 28 Eastern Pennsylvania counties. Meanwhile the cost of the inquiry—well over a $1,000,000 now—continues to mount. The commission is seeking a proper evaluation of the utility's lawyers brought several truck loads of records to the commission including a detailed inventory of all property down to the last bolt and electric light globe.

MAITLAND SUNDAY SCHOOL TO PICNIC

Maitland Memorial Sunday school will hold their annual picnic at Cascade Park on Saturday, July 10. Supper will be served in the grove at 5 o'clock, and following, a program of contests, games and other sports will take place.

Five To Pay Cost Of Viaduct Project

Five parties will pay for the painting of the Mahoning Avenue viaduct for which bids have been asked by the city. They are the city of New Castle, B. & O., B. R. & P., P. & L. E. and Erie railroads. The P. & L. E. Railroad will paint their own share of the span and the remaining cost will be pro rated between the city and railroad companies. Bids will be opened July 19 by city council.

WANTS LIBERAL WORLD

(International News Service)

SELINGSGROVE, Pa. — The world must be re-liberalized after the war, according to Dr. Paul Swain Havens, president of Wilson College. The college head told graduating students that the world has become illiberat because of the all-out global war effort.

STILL DETAINED HERE

Allen Klump, Jamestown, and Charles Petrach, Erie youth, were held in the city jail today on a charge of being runaways. They were arrested last night. The former, although not a service man, wore a uniform, and explained to Acting Mayor Albert Hoyland he believed he could secure a job easier if he wore a uniform.

If America doesn't plan the post-war world, the post-war world may plan America.

NAVY COOK BUYS BONDS WITH BUSINESS PROFITS

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — One ship's cook, third class, at the Naval Air Technical Training Center, is going all-out in the war effort.

Not only is Vernon Eurby Hill helping fight the war, but he is buying war bonds at the rate of $1,000 a month from profits of two restaurants he owns in Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Rev. Herman M. Patton, pastor of the First Christian church, conducted the largely attended services, and Mrs. L. A. Lightfritz sang two lovely solos, "In The Garden" and "The Old Rugged Cross". There were many lovely flowers.

SHROYER SENDS REMEMBRANCE TO BUSINESS MAN HERE

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9—George Colas, manager of the National Lunch had a distinguished visitor about three weeks ago when the State Secretary of Highways, John U. Shroyer, stopped into his lunch room for a snack. The popular Secretary of Highways liked the hot dogs so well that George served him that he struck up quite a friendship with the local lunch room proprietor. Today George received a picture of the State Highway Department Secretary which was properly inscribed "To My Friend George Colas."—John U. Shroyer, Secretary of Highways.

Needless to say, George is very proud of the photograph and will have it framed so that he can hang it in his lunch room.

Resignations Of School Teachers Accepted By Board

Lillian Durbin, Josceyln McLaughlin Chosen To Fill Two Of Several Vacancies

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—Resignations of four teachers with several years' experience were received by the Ellwood district Board of Education at the regular July meeting last night.

They were: Earla Harriger, who taught senior high school English, and who was recently married; Claribell Lyle, of Grove City, who taught commercial subjects; Mary Louise Davis, who taught oral expression in the Hartman school, and who resigned because of illness in her home; and Marie Cowles, New Castle, who taught health in the Hartman school. At the last meeting, the resignation of Mrs. Arthur Hoenstine, English teacher, was accepted.

Two new teachers were chosen. Lillian May Durbin of Chewton, this year's graduate of Indiana State Teachers college, was chosen to teach commercial subjects; and Mary Josceyln McLaughlin, this year's alumnus of Seton Hill, was elected to teach junior and senior high school English. Mrs. John Raschella was granted an extension of her leave of absence.

Vacancies still exist in the elementary health, geography and English departments, and a special meeting will be held sometime this month to elect teachers for those departments.

The cost-of-living payment, aggregating $30,349.29, will be paid on July 15.

The tax collector's bond was accepted, and the commission placed on the same sliding scale that was in effect last year. A further discussion was held concerning the closing of the delinquent office. The office will be open only half-a-day after October 10, and will later be closed entirely when a plan is worked out whereby all collections will be made through the regular office.

A summary of the 1943 school tax duplicate shows the total tax levy to be $202,543 with $35,430 of the amount being per capita tax. The total tax levied in 1942 was $181,983. The difference comes from the increase in millage. The largest tax levy is in third ward, being $70,773, and the reason, of course, is the tax levied on the tube mill. Total boro tax levied for 1943 amounted to $69,439. Total property valuation for the city is listed at $6,684,331.

Total receipts for the month of June amounted to $21,282. The largest item being a $10,000 loan from the People's bank. Total tax collections for the month amounted to $1,573.

The annual medical report was submitted by the school nurse, Edith Shremp. The report contained the many test of various kinds made during the year, and the remedial action suggested to the parents.

Permission was given the Eagles Lodge Auxiliary to sponsor a radio show in the auditorium in July, providing the usual payment of rental and janitorial fees is made.

The football bleachers are being painted in preparation for the opening of the season.

184 Blood Donors Listed Thursday

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—184 more Ellwood City district residents were Red Cross blood bank donors at the mobile unit set up at the Elks club. A total of 196 reported with 12 being rejected for various reasons.

This brought the total amount of donors in three days to approximately 600. About the same amount will be cared for today, and the balance finished on Saturday morning.

The canteen corps headed by Mrs. J. M. Stoughton and assisted by the girl reserves is doing an outstanding job in assisting the Red Cross corps with the work here.

North Sewickley Vacation School

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—On Tuesday morning at 8:45 o'clock a daily vacation Bible school will open for all children of the community at the North Sewickley Presbyterian church.

The school will be held from 8:45 until 11:30 on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday mornings for two weeks. The school, which will feature Bible study, music and handiwork will be for children of the ages of 6 to and including 14.

Teachers will be Mrs. Thomas Baird, Mrs. Walter Blinn, Donna Jane Blinn, Mrs. Jack Findley, Mary Eckhart and other Sunday school teachers.

Lt. Allen Cross Tells Rotarians Of Africa Victory

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—Ellwood Rotarians were literally held spellbound last night for 45 minutes by Lieut. Allen Gross local Spitfire fighter pilot, who recently returned home for a 15-day furlough after taking part in the entire North African campaign.

Veteran of 70 successful sorties against the Axis, the youthful pilot gave a most fascinating account of his experiences from the time he left the States until he returned home after the fall of Pantelleria.

He described the various types of planes used by the Allies and the Axis and said that the German machines, pilots and crews are good and not to be underestimated. The Axis airforce cracked up the last days of the African battle along with the ground forces, Gross said. The Allies used a fighter to escort each bomber at first, and on the last day only two American fighters, himself and another, were needed to escort a squadron of 18 bombers over Bizerte.

Lieut. Gross, who was awarded many outstanding medals, answered many questions for the group which was assembled at the Immanuel Reformed church for the weekly dinner meeting. Special guests included the speaker's father, Frank Gross, Sr., of Knox, and James Turner.

Next Tuesday night, Lieut. Gross will recount his experiences to the Kiwanis club at the Lutheran church. The club invites anyone who would like to hear the talk to meet at the church at 7 o'clock.

PAXTON R. FIKE IS COUNCILMAN

Will Fill Unexpired Term Of Joseph McCandless Jr., Who Resigned

ELLWOOD CITY, July 9.—Paxton R. Fike, Smiley street, was elected as a member of the Ellwood Boro Council at the regular meeting last night to fill the unexpired term of Joseph McCandless Jr., member of the Navy Seabee Construction Corps.

Mr. Fike, nominated by T. C. Sleighter, the other Fourth ward councilman, is not a newcomer to the body, having served as the Fifth ward representative for two terms a few years ago. Mr. McCandless, home on furlough from Davisville, R. I., attended the meeting, and presented his resignation. Appreciation of his service to the city was expressed by council president, Elmer S. Greenham. Malcolm Murray was also nominated for the office by J. C. Boyd.

Residents of lower Glenn avenue, below Sixth street, attended the meeting to protest damage to their properties caused by overflow sewer water during heavy storms. During the two recent hard storms, the storm sewer in that section "blew up," sending water geyser high. Boro Manager, Lowell Monroe, said he was at a loss to explain the condition since the sewers were not clogged, but it was probably caused by an air pocket at that point. One resident declared that the water was window high in her home. The sewer committee will investigate the condition with some action to be taken, which will likely be a plan to by-pass that particular sewer.

Bids for the paving of Park avenue, between Second and Fourth streets, were opened. The low bidder was Oscar Dahl of this city, whose total offer was $10,296.80. Other bidders were Alex DiBlazio, Youngstown, $12,715, and the New Castle Duntile company, $12,012. The bid was awarded to Dahl, and the work will begin at once.

Passed on third and final reading was an ordinance prohibiting the starting of fires of any kind in the business sections. An ordinance calling for the annexation of 2.2 acres of North Sewickley township, adjacent to South Fifth street, was passed on first reading. Four properties are included.

A motion calling for the sale of 9 lots, 22 feet wide, to Joseph Sumner at a bid of $2,000 was lost with Biordi, Lanzi, Turner and Caplan voting for the motion. Various members gave as their reason for voting against the sale, the fact that the boro has paving and sewer liens amounting to more than $300 against each lot.

The bond of H. E. Wilson, tax collector, in the amount of $20,000, offered by the Amsterdam Casualty company, was accepted. Again, current taxes will be payable in four equal installments.

Payment to the contractor for the pavement of Pershing street was withheld, pending what action may be taken against the surety company because the work was not completed in the allotted time.

It was agreed to discontinue the use of the vacant lot on Lawrence avenue, next to Shuler's store, as a public parking lot. Owned by Carl Stiefel, council agreed to use the lot several years ago to make a parking place in lieu of tax payments. The lot is not drained and is flooded most of the time, it was pointed out.

Total fines, costs and forfeits for June were listed at $117. The burgess was instructed to investigate speeding complaints in Pershing street. The 11 o'clock curfew is being observed without any trouble, Burgess Houk reported.

Ten fire alarms were answered in June, resulting in a total damage of $155, the fire chief's report stated.

Two cases of measles were the only contagious diseases reported by the health officer.

to an AMERICAN mother

This morning when you prepared the breakfast, you skimped on the coffee a little . . . took only one cup yourself . . . said you didn't want any bacon or butter.

You saved every drop of bacon fat, prepared some tin cans for salvage, then walked to the Red Cross rooms for a long day of sewing and bandage rolling.

Coming home, you stopped at the grocer's, gazed longingly at a steak, bought fish instead and got War Stamps with the difference.

Tonight you're knitting socks for a sailor . . . or writing to Bill at Camp. You're wishing you could call your sister in Washington. But you decided not to, because you know that "war is on the wires."

Thanks for remembering that. Thanks, too, for keeping all your calls brief.

Your cooperation helps us handle all the other calls of the armed forces, war industries and the government . . . calls that will help to bring Bill back home some day . . . when he and you and all of us working together have won this war.

Indies Certain Of Gaining Tie In City League

Swat Moose, 3-1, To Pad First Place Lead; Rainey Homers

GUNNETT STARS AS ELDERS WIN

Even if they drop three remaining games on the program, which doesn't seem likely, the Lawrence Indies are certain of gaining a tie for the City Baseball league first half championship.

The highly efficient south enders practically crushed the Mooses' hopes of grabbing the bunting by slapping down the Rodenbaughmen by a 3-1 count last night on Lee avenue field.

Rainey Homers

Stepping to the plate in the first, Rainey, centerfielder, blasted one of Frigone's pitches high and far. Rainey clattered home behind a mate. This proved enough of an edge for Anderson who twirled a four hitter.

That circuit blow was an unfortunate sock for Frigone, who turned in a two hitter.

Today's standing finds the Indies leading the Moose by two and a half games. The Indies can cinch the crown by winning one of the remaining frays.

Gunnett Stars

On Marshall field, Manager Dory Gunnett flipped a magnificent three hitter as he led his Elder A. C. to a 5-3 victory over the tail end Shenango Pottery nine.

Four big runs in the opening frame eliminated the Potters' chances. Gunnett struck out nine batters, besides contributing two hits, the same number racked up by Shortstop McCullough.

V-12 Program May Help; Coach Bob Higgins Singing Blues

BUCKNELL OPENING FOE ON SEPT. 25

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., July 9.—Penn State's 1943 football team was taking form today—on paper—but Coach Bob Higgins still was not satisfied that all his wartime problems would be ironed out before the season's opener against Bucknell September 25.

Most heartening development, however, was the knowledge that two, and perhaps five, lettermen would be back. Red Moore, Rochester, Pa., tackle, and Bobby Williams, Pittsburgh, tailback, both have been assigned to Penn State for training under the navy V-12 program. Moore was a full-time performer last year while Williams, one of a half dozen freshmen who made good on the varsity, excelled as a passer.

Material Sparse

The other varsity performers expected back are Johnny Jaffurs, Wilkinsburg, one of the Nittany Lion's better linemen, and two good backs, Aldo Cenci of Scranton and Sparky Brown of Cazenovia, N. Y. All three have been ordered back to college pending their summons to officers' training school. Only fly in the ointment is the possibility that their army summons may come early in the season.

Otherwise, material is sparse and Coach Higgins still feels that the Lion's nine-game schedule will be tough sledding unless the navy V-12 program and the incoming freshmen produce some outstanding football players. Of the freshmen the most promising—again on paper—are Charley Stapel, Avalon; Mike Slobodnjak, Wilkinsburg; Marino Marchi, Glassmere; Al Olszewski, Connellsville, and George Slater, Asbury Park, N. J.

Legion Stars Defeat Fannins

Team Representing Perry S. Gaston Post Looks Good In Opener Last Night

Playing their first game together Thursday evening, the American Legion Junior team, which will represent the Perry S. Gaston post of this city, in district competition, defeated the Fannins on Lehigh Field Thursday evening by a score of 8-3.

Andrews, on the mound all the way for the Legion team, held the Fannins scoreless for five innings, after which he weakened a little and allowed three runs in the last two frames.

Pyle, on the hill for Fannins deserved a better fate than befell him, six errors permitting the all stars to score eight runs with their nine hits. Frazier followed him on the mound and checked the scoring. Tanner and Zedick had the only extra base blows, each contributing a double. Waselewski, Tanner and Andrews each had two hits. Andrews fanned 14 during the seven innings of the game. Zedick had a double for the losers.

CAMDEN DOUBLE PAYS $1,255.40 TO DOZEN FANS

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., July 9.—Eleven persons today were $1255.40 richer after holding the lucky daily-double ducats at Camden's Garden State Park race track.

The mud-loving maidens who romped home ahead of their fields to form the winning combination were Mrs. William Muth's four-year-old, Can't We, which returned $27.30 straight to take the first race, and Mrs. William H. Cane's Galful, a three-year-old, who paid $83.70 in the second event.

It was the second largest daily double in the New Jersey track's history, the tops being Favorite Trap-Leo's Brandy, which paid $2456 last season.

Sports Ramblings

Once over lightly:—

There probably isn't a busier coach in the county that L. B. Hennon, Wampum high's lettered foreman. Up shortly after the crack of dawn, the fiery tutor sprints to the community playground after performing a few chores about the house. At the grounds, he leads more than 50 youngsters in all sorts of games. Late in the afternoon, he dashes away to Ellwood City and his war job at the Aetna Standard . . . .

Walt Jaskolka, the ex-Union Township athlete, is back at Penn State college to resume his gridironning, provided Uncle Sam doesn't say "come come" . . . Sammy DeLillo, the 20th member of the championship St. Vitus basketball team in service, forwards greetings to the sports fans from Camp Picket . . . .

Brooklyn's collapse, which has Flatbush hynotized, had to be dumped on someone's shoulders. So, the press chose Branch Rickey . . . Picking the manager of the year is a soft assignment this season. How can anyone surpass Bucky Harris, the guy who made something out of nothing? . . . .

Something I didn't know until today: Every third sailor in training at Great Lakes has to be taught to swim! . . . Bill Veeck, colorful Milwaukee prexy, erected a right field screen to keep left-handed hitting visitors from clouting homers. An excellent idea. The only hitch is that Veeck's own Hershel Martin has been robbed out of more than a dozen homers because of the screen! . . . .

Fall note: The professional football season starts on September 19 and runs until December 5 . . . Success piece: George Barr, National league ump, began his baseball career as an usher in the Tulsa ball park . . . Greg Rice still holds a mark that Gunder Haegg probably won't sully. The N. D. running master hasn't been beaten indoors since 1940 . . . Comb it dry Barb . . . .

PHILLY DESIRES ARMY-NAVY TILT

City Holds Contract For Battle At Municipal Stadium November 27

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Army and navy officials were reminded today that if the popular service football game is not played at West Point or Annapolis, it must be played in Philadelphia.

Disturbed by the suggestion of Sen. James Meade of New York that the Army-Navy game be played "in one of the several large stadia in the east," Acting Mayor Bernard Samuel promptly called attention to a contract held by the city which calls for the battle "at municipal stadium November 27, 1943."

From 1936 until last year, when the game was shifted to Annapolis upon the recommendation of President Roosevelt to avert unnecessary travel, the annual service contest has been played in the Quaker stadium. Only 12,000 persons viewed last year's game, as against crowds upwards of 100,000 in previous tilts at Philadelphia, it was pointed out .

WRESTLER BECOMES BETTER WITH AGE

(International News Service)

CHESTER, July 9.—As far as Wrestler Milo Steinborn is concerned wrestling is a life-time sport.

Importance Of Baseball In Various Camps, Bases Stirs American Parents

By DAVIS J. WALSH
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—It seems reasonably certain by this time that a dish of fine, old mulligatawny may start odoring up the national scene at any moment, unless something is done pretty rapidly about the established custom of having a certain number of patriots set out to win in a pair of baseball bloomers.

It is a tough, very realistic war and the fact is that most parents of boys in the armed forces are a little old fashioned about the thing. They think all boys in the armed forces ought to take their chances with the rest, whether they can play baseball exceptionally, indifferently or not at all.

The importance that ball playing in various bases and camps has assumed in the eyes of American parenthood brings up the story of Johnny Mize.

Mize Favored?

It seems that Mize, well known for some years as the first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants, had been up for induction into the army and that somehow the word has gotten about that he might be turned down.

Our informant reported that a man from each of the two major armed services was on the door step, waiting to grab off Mize—not because he was big and strong, or had a specialized knowledge of gunnery, or a nice, kind face, or could drive a car or even run an elevator.

Not any of these things entered into it, from all accounts; his importance to a country which was and is committed to the waging and winning of a war tied in only with the fact that he could hit a baseball farther than nearly anybody else. This is no per-se indictment of Johnny Mize.

We understand, in fact, that he has expressed a wish to do something more useful than living off the taxpayer's cuff at the Great Lakes naval training station, while drilling whenever he can take time away from the practice and performance of baseball. Other ball players, suddenly conscious that the heat's on, have expressed the same willingness and wish. But, so far, nothing has been done to alter the basic situation.

Perhaps a player or two or more may have been despatched to some combat area, while nobody was noticing. Perhaps, even as this is being written, the first batch is making ready to go.

Transfers Popular

But what seems more likely, rated off the past performance record of the personnel departments, is that somebody with a cuspidor hat or egg-Benedictine epaulet is arranging a transfer to another base . . . Norfolk, for instance, so that one box score's loss is another's gain, with no harm done either way.

That is, unless you don't want to count the distemper that's pretty general with parents of non-ball playing sons every time they think of Joe or Willie or even Murgatroyd the Hellangone in Buno-Buno and then learn that Great Lakes won out in the seventh again.

Rickey Blamed For Bums' Slip

Carver Says Prexy Failed To Brace Club; Hitting, Hurling Poor

WYATT'S LOSS ANOTHER BLOW

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 9.—What was that we were saying about the Brooklyn Dodgers, something about this being a team living in the haunted house at Ebbet's Field?

What is it that make everybody know that these Dodgers are not the Dodgers of last season when they barely lost the National League pennant or of the season before when they won it? Whatever it is, these Dodgers are not the same. And they are not going to win the National League pennant this time.

Rickey Is Blamed

We are prone to lay all the trouble of the club on the doorstep of Mr. Branch Rickey, who succeeded MacPhail as president of the club. And, as a matter of fact, Mr. Rickey is to blame for the current plight of the Brooklyn team. He could have got some strength before the deadline arrived against major league trading. Instead, he was content to go along with what he had and so the club which came out of the wilderness two years ago is headed back there again now.

Hitting is no better than fair; fielding is about as poor as any in the National League and their pitching is uncertain.

At the moment, John Whitlow is on the shelf with a bursitis condition in his shoulder, which means that their mainstay of the last couple of seasons is out temporarily.

No Provisions Made

No provisions has been made for such eventualities. The loss of Wyatt means that the Dodgers must struggle along with whatever else they can muster in the way of pitching strength. And can you imagine Fred Fitzsimmons as a starting pitcher for a pennant contender? That's his present status with the Dodgers.

Can you imagine him as a starter for the Cardinals, who seem destined to win the pennant by about 10 games.

FOXES IGNORE TURKEY FLOCKS

State Game Commission Sees No Late Summer Or Early Fall Predation

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, July 9. — The state game commission today anticipated no late summer or early fall predation by foxes on the wild turkey flocks.

The hopes were based on the results of a study of 193 fox scats on a 30,000-acre wild turkey tract in the seven mountains region of south central Pennsylvania, reported by Edward L. Kozicky of State College.

"The main late summer and early fall foods of the foxes in the seven mountains region were found to be insects, mice and fruits," Kozicky summarized. This was good news for the thousands of Pennsylvania nimrods who prize a wild turkey as among the finest game of any season.

Don Bingo's Turf Days Seem Over

Season Tough On Thoroughbreds; Riverland First Victim Recently

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9.—This has been a tough season on thoroughbreds. Only a few weeks ago they had to destroy Riverland and Don Bingo now is headed for retirement.

The suburban handicap winner broke a bone in each of his forefeet in the Massachusetts handicap as he ran third last Monday and retirement is virtually certain for the South American bred colt.

Thus will end one of the great sagas of the turf, the story of the horse which was brought from South America to shine for a brief moment in the spotlight and to fade so suddenly.

All of which is a part of the racing business.

Captain Pat Filley, Notre Dame, will be with his team only through the October games. He is to join the Marines then.

He Must Be

ST. LOUIS, July 9.—Pat Monahan, the veteran scout who digs up baseball ivory for the St. Louis Cardinals, springs this one about a minor league club which was losing a goodly number of players to the armed forces.

Willing to sign almost any sort of replacement, the manager was interviewing a young applicant who applied for a trial.

"I'm a great hitter and I'm draft-proof, classified in 4-F," the rookie said.

"What position do you play?" quizzed the anxious manager.

"I can pitch, catch, play the infield or outfield," was the reply. "I can even manage or coach the team, work as trainer or groundkeeper, take tickets or do any kind of a job around a ball park."

"You're nuts," growled the manager.

"Sure I'm nuts," piped the rookie. "How do you think I got in 4-F?"

Killed in Action

DON WEMPLE, former Colgate university grid player, has been reported "killed in action" somewhere in the Asiatic theater of war. Wemple, who played with the Brooklyn Dodgers after his college days, enlisted in 1941 and was a second lieutenant in U. S. Army Air Corps. (International)

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Things we ne'er knew before. There is a house-painter here who also does paintings in oil. Yes, folk, he is "Shorty" Fessler and according to what we've been told this ex-fight game man has paintings of George Washington, Robert Edison and probably one or more others hanging in the history room of George Washington Junior high school.

Ex-Champ to watch Ex-Champ: Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight king will not be the only one who wore a pugilistic crown in Forbes field, July 12, although he will be the only ex-champ engaged actively in fisticuffs. George Chip, former middleweight champion who got his crown by kayoing Frank Klaus, intends to drink in the sight of the La Motta-Zivic return fight.

Some Ring Celebrities: According to reports we received today there is a possibility that some of the higher-ups in the fistic game may be here probably next winter. Tommy Walsh of Chicago is one who is said to have an eye on the town which industrially is very good and Jimmy Dunn, now in California, may also return. If they do there'll be pro' action.

By JOHN CASHMAN

NEW YORK, July 9.—The Brooklyn Dodgers, unlike other hardies of both circuits, are being wooed deeper and deeper into the entangling forests of the second division. The fair maiden who is currently wooing Brooklyn into dire straits is now the Pittsburgh Pirates, who are only 7½ games behind.

Rip Sewell hung up his 12th win of the year yesterday by pitching the Pirates into an 8 to 2 twilight win over the Dodgers. He further asserted his supremacy over the National league second-placers that he allowed Brooklyn runners to reach second base in only one inning, the fifth. In the first frame, the Pirates ran up a three-run lead on Fletcher's homer that was never threatened. The Pics are three games from second place.

Third For Reynolds

Rookie Allie Reynolds scored his third triumph of the season for Cleveland when he turned back the Washington Senators, 5 to 2, in the Indians' first swing-shift fray.

Reynolds allowed only seven hits, four of which were made by Mickey Vernon.

Mickey Rocco of the Indians set the hitting pace for his club with three doubles in a row as Ewald Pyle lasted only into the third inning and was charged with the defeat.

The Detroit Tigers notched a 3 to 1 twilight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics on the six-hit pitching of Dizzy Trout. The Tigers scored all of their runs in the third inning, the last two being driven in by Luman Harris' single.

Wakefield Star Again

A selection to the American league all-star team was celebrated by Dick Wakefield, who swatted three hits off Roger Wolff. Wolff, the loser, gave up nine hits in all. Philadelphia got its run in the eighth on three singles.

The Cincinnati Reds and the Philadelphia Phillies divided a twin bill, the Reds winning the first game, 7 to 5, and the Phillies the second, 1 to 0.

The Reds overcame a 4 to 0 lead to finish in front in the first game, rounding out 17 hits.

In the afterpiece, Ray Barrett outlasted Ray Starr and Joe Beggs. Barrett was given the deciding run in the 14th with men on first and third and two out, when Pinky May singled across Triplett.

1 Be sure your sleeves aren't too long. Cuffs that hang down fray faster.

2 Turn up your shirt collars before sending them to the laundry. (This cuts down abrasion on the top edge of collars, where they wear out first.)

3 Don't let Mama or the laundry put too much starch in your collars.

MILK-BOTTLE WALL CAUSES ACTION

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—A 72-year-old man couldn't understand today why a wall of milk bottles around his victory garden had been carried away and why he should be charged with hoarding.

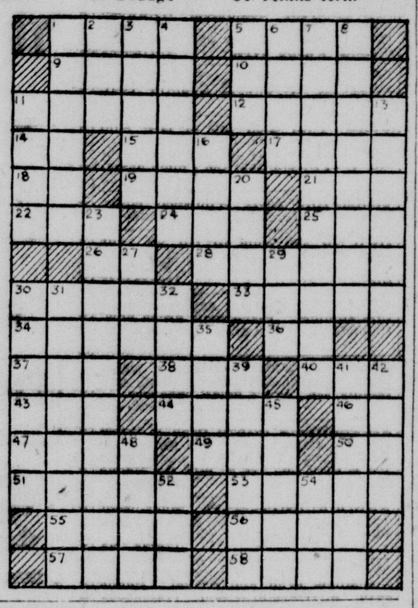

Paul Susce, who speaks only broken English, will have to appear Monday night on a charge of hoarding the bottles and if found guilty can be sentenced to serve six months in jail or pay a $100 fine.

Complaints about the milk-bottle-wall were first received at the Allegheny county milk exchange which represents the district milk companies. When the case was investigated, Susce claimed he bought the bottles from a junk man years ago. However, according to Inspector Edward M. Dauer, the bottles were almost new and none of them very old.

Industrial Deaths Down, Injuries Up

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 9—Industrial accidents claimed the lives of 112 workers during April and resulted in injuries to 11,152 others, the Department of Labor and Industry reavels.

Death total was approximately 23 per cent below the previous month and more than 18 per cent under the same month in 1942. Total of injured, however, for the first four months of the year, was 45,436 or 362 more than the corresponding period last year.

LITTLE GIRL HIKES, CYCLES, 16 MILES

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, July 9.—Eight-year-old Patricia Goodwin today claims an unofficial record for travel afoot and by bicycle.

Setting out from her home for a short walk, she grew tired about six miles from home. Patricia noticed an unoccupied tricycle and decided to use it for the remainder of her tour.

Late in the afternoon she arrived in Chester, 16 miles from Home. Footsore and weary, Patricia rested there until her mother came for her. The tricycle, only slightly worse for its long-distance trip, is waiting at the Goodwin home for its owner to claim it.

The machine, developed by a private concern in cooperation with the Quartermaster Corps, speeds up the process to less than 10 seconds.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

A letter just arrived from Sampson, New York and we are informed that about 50 New Castle boys who are in the Navy and now stationed at the U. S. Naval Training Station there will be home July 22nd and stay here until July 29th. Here is the exact wording of the notice that accompanied the letter from the boys. "Beware (then a picture of a wolf in a navy uniform) July 22 until July 29 The Wolves in Blue on company 113 will appear in New Castle for a one week howl . . ." We will be looking forward to your visit boys as will be your families and sweethearts.

Next Wednesday evening, weather permitting, a Vegetable Growing demonstration will be held at the Edgewood Victory Garden . . . all gardeners of the community are invited to attend . . . the reason the demonstration by W. B. Nissley of Penn State is being held at this particular garden is because there is plenty of room to accommodate a crowd . . . parking and those who walk. Mr. Nissley will be in the County on the 14th and 15th and will make several talks to Victory Gardeners.

Senator Hartley (R) of New Jersey made a short talk last night and he was deeply interested in the OPA . . . we agree in part with his thoughts . . . His theory was that the OPA was not the right agency to have so much control . . . Do you people realize that the OPA tells us what we can do from the day we are born until we reach the grave? Even the coffin we are burried in carries the OPA price tag and if our ration book isn't turned in after we die our relatives are hounded day and night. No other agency ever had the dictating powers that the OPA has today . . . and the OPA is run by a lot of long haired professors who never had one bit of practical experience. What we need is an agency that is run by business men . . . men and women who have had experience, not theory out of a book . . . Theories should work, but how many actually do? Are we going to be Guinea Pigs? Let your congressman know how you feel about this foolishness of the OPA . . . Wake up America before it's too late . . . We are all willing to give all we have for the war effort but no foolishness.

Read and use the classified ads daily . . . they will help you buy war bonds.

Trading Is Quiet; Changes In Prices Largely Fractional During Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 9—The stock market was narrow and mixed today in rather quiet trading. Industrial share were generally lower while rails and utilities were steady. Both gains and losses were fractional.

Volume ran below yesterday's total of 960,190 shares.

In the industrials, large fractional losses were recorded by the aviations, steels, and motors.

The rails and utilities were higher on the opening and held for the most part their gains as the session progressed. Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific advanced fractions while Atchison slipped behind a minus sign after a higher opening. North American and Commonwealth Edison led the utilities.

Higher leaders included General Electric and International Harvester while United Air Lines, Chrysler, and U. S. Steel were lower.

The bond market was mixed and quiet.

Offers Patrons Jobs In Store

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS — One St. Louis woman's store has introduced a new wrinkle in solving its help shortage problem—the store asked its customers to serve as sales people.

Charge account customers were surprised recently to receive with their monthly statements a suggestion that they could find spare time jobs at the store.

An immediate and enthusiastic response soon put housewives and other women at work on the selling side of the counters. The managers reported they had hired "some really capable sales help" with their scheme. Another store had an idea, too. It put up a sign reading, "Be kind to our sales people. We can get plenty of customers but we can't get enough help."

Smith-Connally Law May Be Applied In Brownsville District In State

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 9.—United State attorneys, in a move believed to presage prompt application of the Smith-Connally anti-strike law, today prepared an extensive report on picketing activities by United Mine Workers in the Brownsville-California sector which has already succeeded in making more than 13,000 men idle in 21 mines.

The results of the investigation will be forwarded to Attorney General Biddle in Washington where a final decision will be made on whether to prosecute the roving bands of pickets, many of them women, who have been touring western Pennsylvania's rich coal coking fields in automobiles admonishing workers to remain away from the pits.

Under provisions of the recently enacted anti-strike law, it was pointed out, persons aiding or instigating strikes at government-seized operations are liable to one-year prison terms and $5,000 fines.

Fireworks Soon

With the cryptic observation that there would be "fireworks aplenty soon," the federal attorneys launched into the investigation after a group of western Pennsylvania coal operators association representatives called on United States Attorney Charles F. Uhl here for information as to what the government proposed to do to insure the mining of the critically-needed bituminous coal.

Unless immediate action is forthcoming, the operators are reported to have told Uhl, output of raw materials by Pittsburgh district steel mills will dip sharply again, this time at a moment when the industry has just launched a vigorous campaign to increase production to meet rising army and navy needs.

Meantime, despite the action of UMW leaders condemning the latest wave of work stoppages as "outlaw acts," coal operators were forced to admit the bands of pickets, with women in the vanguard, were having a telling effect in turning would-be workers away from the pits. It was openly feared the walkouts might spread to the entire region and eventually grip all of western Pennsylvania's 120,000 miners again.
